David Goldblatt Intersections:

David Goldblatt: Intersections David Goldblatt, Camera Austria (Graz), 2005      Regarding Intersections David Goldblatt, Michael Stevenson, 2014 Between 1999 and 2011 David Goldblatt created personal photography in color for the first time While Goldblatt had employed color extensively in his professional work since 1964 it was only with the new political dispensation and the advances of digital reproduction at the end of the millennium that he felt it pertinent comprehensively to make personal photographs in color Initially Goldblatt photographed in his immediate environment Johannesburg before deciding to examine South Africa by taking photographs within a radius of 500 meters of each of the 122 points of intersection of a whole degree of latitude and a whole degree of longitude within its borders Yet in time Goldblatt encountered uninspiring locations and abandoned the project although he retained the idea of intersections From time to time over a period of nine years he travelled the country in search of intersections of ideas values histories conflicts congruencies fears joys and aspirations and the land in which and often because of which these formed This book brings together a selection of Goldblatt's color photography in South Africa from 2002 to 2011 An earlier version Intersections was published by Prestel in 2005 and the catalogue Intersections Intersected consisting of paired black and white and color photographs was published by the Serralves Museum Porto in 2008      David Goldblatt David Goldblatt, Mark Hayworth-Booth, Christoph Danelzik-Brüggemann, 2005 In this generously illustrated monograph the renowned photographer David Goldblatt explores South Africa after the end of apartheid      Intersections Intersected David Goldblatt, 2008 For more than 50 years Goldblatt has produced comprehensive series of photographs dealing with poignant issues of life in South Africa Intersections Intersected features approximately 30 pairs of images each set composed of one black and white and one colour image taken before and after 1994 The series of photographs many presented here for the first time were taken in the same place that was visited during the Apartheid regime and then later after its fall The choice of pairs was made by the artist who has also contributed extended documentary captions relating to each one of the images In addition the publication is also accompanied by essays from Ivor Platt and Ulrich Loock      Photographs David Goldblatt, 2006 David Goldblatt renowned South African photographer got 2006 Hasselblad award the most important of the world      Grassroots Literacy and the Written Record John Trimbur, 2020-04-08 This book examines how asbestos activists living in remote rural villages in South Africa activated metropolitan resources of representation at the grassroots level in a quest for justice and restitution for the catastrophic effects on their lives caused by the asbestos industry It follows the Asbestos Interest Group AIG over a fifteen year period through its involvement in grassroots research in legal cases and in the compensation systems for asbestos related disease It examines how the AIG became grassroots technicians of translocal paperwork moving texts back and forth between periphery and center pushing documents through the textual mazes of the courts medical institutions the compensation system and various government agencies The book addresses rhetorical mobility and the extent to which

given the AIG's position on the periphery it has been able to enter the voices and interests of villagers into formerly inaccessible forums of deliberation and decision making

Landscapes between Then and Now Nicola Brandt, 2020-09-08 In Landscapes Between Then and Now Nicola Brandt examines the increasingly compelling and diverse cross disciplinary work of photographers and artists made during the transition from apartheid to post apartheid and into the contemporary era By examining specific artworks made in South Africa Namibia and Angola Brandt sheds light on established and emerging themes related to aftermath landscapes embodied histories un belonging spirituality and memorialization She shows how landscape and identity are mutually constituted and profiles this process against the background of the legacy of the acutely racially divisive policies of the apartheid regime that are still reflected on the land As a signpost throughout the book Brandt draws on the work of the renowned South African photographer Santu Mofokeng and his critical thinking about landscape Landscapes Between Then and Now explores how practitioners who engage with identity and their physical environment as a social product might reveal something about the complex and fractured nature of postcolonial and contemporary societies Through diverse strategies and aesthetics they comment on inherent structures and epistemologies of power whilst also expressing new and radical forms of self determinism Brandt asks why these cross disciplinary works ranging from social documentary to experimental performance and embodied practices are critical now and what important possibilities for social and political reflection and engagement they suggest
