David Smith David Smith, Los Angeles County Museum of Art, 1965 David Smith Smith/Cooke, 2018 This comprehensive sourcebook is destined to become a lasting and definitive reference on the art and aesthetic philosophy of the American artist David Smith 1906-1965. A pioneer of twentieth century modernism, Smith was renowned for the expansive formal and conceptual ambitions of his broadly diverse and inventive welded steel abstractions. His groundbreaking achievements drew freely on cubism, surrealism, and constructivism, profoundly influencing later movements such as minimalism and environmental art. By radically challenging older conventions of monolithic figuration and refuting arbitrary distinctions between painters and sculptors, Smith asserted sculpture's equal role in advancing modern art. This compilation of Smith's poems, sketchbook notes, essays, lectures, letters to the editor, reviews, and interviews underscores the ways his writing articulated his private identity and promoted the social ideals that made him a key participant in contemporary discourses surrounding modernism, art, and politics and sculptural aesthetics. Each text is annotated by Susan J. Cooke with historical and contextual information that reflects Smith's process of continually reviewing and revising his writings in response to his evolving aspirations as a visual artist.

All the documents in David Smith: Collected Writings, Lectures, and Interviews have been newly corrected against the original manuscripts, typescripts, and audiotapes. Each text in this collection is annotated with historical and contextual information that reflects Smith's own process of continually reviewing and revising his writings in response to his evolving aspirations as a visual artist.

Biography of Rev. David Smith, of the A. M. E. Church (1881) David Smith, 2014-08-07 While titled Biography of Rev. David Smith 1881, the main portion of this work contains Smith's autobiography. This autobiography is followed by a brief history of Wilberforce University by Daniel Alexander Payne, 1811-1893, who was an African American educator and minister.

and who became Wilberforce University's president in 1863. He also served as chancellor and dean of its theological school from 1876 until his death. Payne was a forceful supporter of education within the African Methodist Episcopal (AME) Church and an effective proponent for reforming and standardizing the course of study for AME ministers, which was accepted by the General Conference in 1844. He became an AME bishop and held the position for 41 years.

David Smith Invents Susan Behrends Frank, David Smith, Sarah Hamill, Peter Stevens, 2011. Summary discusses selected steel sculptures fabricated by the American painter-sculptor David Smith (1906-1965) as well as Smith's drawings and paintings. Emphasizes his investigation of concave-convex forms and notes his use of painted surfaces. Includes essays on Smith's photography of his own works and on his surfaces and materials. Provided by publisher.

David Smith Sarah Hamill, 2011. Profoundly influenced by the welded sculptures of Julio Gonzalez and of Picasso, David Smith devoted himself entirely to metal sculptures from steel and scrap material. Almost single-handedly, Smith changed the nature of sculpture in America, giving it a passion, seriousness, and an identity it did not previously possess. With his vision, courage, and his exquisite aesthetic gifts, he paved the way for Donald Judd, Richard Serra, and many other American sculptors who elaborated upon his formal and conceptual innovations and accepted his challenge to work and act in ways that would assure that sculpture and sculptors in America would be treated with respect. Before Smith, sculpture was a marginal activity; after him, it was an essential part of the American imagination. Sarah Hamill selected the writings and the previously unpublished interview with poet Frank O'Hara and wrote the central essay about the artist, drawing particular attention to the tradition of iron sculpture and the artist's vital relationship with photography. 120 illustrations.

David Smith David Smith, Joe Pachner, 1998-02-01. Essay by Joan Pachner. Though considered one of the most important modern American sculptors, David Smith was also an avid photographer. This is the first book devoted to Smith's photographs.

David Smith David Smith, Peter Stevens, 2007. This volume is a catalog published to accompany an exhibition of the works of American artist David Smith (1906-1965). Smith was best known as an Abstract Expressionist sculptor, best known for creating large steel abstract geometric sculptures. Much of Smith's work explores the fusion of drawing, painting, and sculpture. This exhibition includes a rare series of intimate yet powerful paintings that have an experimental and free disposition Although each work is small in scale they individually hold an abundance of bold charisma Smith made the paintings in this exhibition over a four year period Each work was made on a sturdy precut piece of masonite board Viewing them as a group one is struck by their range of style and tone the charged tension in the varied relationships between surface and illusionary space and their function as both object and image Simultaneously intimate and powerfully direct these paintings are emblematic of Smith s belief that all art is experienced through our visual response to image
