face To achieve such a goal a practical development framework must be implemented in order to take advantage of the technological innovations that characterize the field of construction and urban engineering Today multi scale BIM is bringing about significant changes that are redefining the paradigms of urban management It facilitates simulations of the sustainability of urban spaces with respect to several criteria most notably relating to energy the economy and the environment Building Information Modeling for a Smart and Sustainable Urban Space proposes a theoretical and practical framework for implementing BIM models for the creation of sustainable and intelligent urban spaces It addresses the issues of acquisition modeling interoperability and BIM and GIS integration for the production of BIM models Case studies are presented providing a practical dimension that demonstrates the production process of the urban model and its contribution to multiscale simulations particularly in real estate evaluation and urban renewal

Routledge Handbook on Labour in Construction and Human Settlements Edmundo Werna, George Ofori, 2023-12-12 Routledge Handbook on Labour in Construction and Human Settlements presents a detailed and comprehensive examination of the relationship between labour and the built environment and synergises these critical focus areas in innovative ways This unrivalled edited collection of chapters analyses problems and presents possible solutions related to the employment and conditions of workers in the construction industry It provides comprehensive coverage of the relationship between the global workforce and the built environment and is divided into four topical areas how labour and the built environment relate to development employment generation in the built environment quality of employment in the built environment and the impact of the built environment on labour in other sectors Underpinning the entire book is the premise that the way the built environment is produced and its main products buildings cities and towns have an impact on large numbers of workers At the same time the quality of the built environment requires construction workers who are well trained and with good working conditions While cities and towns are the engines of economic growth they will not be able to fulfil their economic potential if poverty in the workforce is not addressed Those who are unemployed underemployed or work in unfavourable conditions cannot fully contribute to production and at the same time are limited in their ability to purchase goods and services therefore limiting economic growth and restricting improvements in their living standards In addition investments in infrastructure housing and inner city redevelopment cannot be sustainable if labour issues i e poverty are not addressed This book aims at analysing this complex set of issues comprehensively and will be essential reading to a wide range of researchers across the interdisciplinary intersections of construction business and management economic development urban studies sociology political science and project management

Under Construction: Logics of Urbanism in the Gulf Region Steffen Wippel, Katrin Bromber, Birgit Krawietz, 2016-02-17 Interdisciplinary in approach this volume explores and deciphers the symbolic value and iconicity of the built environment in the Arab Gulf Region its aesthetics language and performative characteristics Bringing together a range of studies by artists curators and scholars it demonstrates how Dubai appeared at least until the financial crisis to be leading the construction race and has already completed a large number of its landmark architecture and strategic facilities In contrast cities like the Qatari capital Doha still appear to be heavily under construction and in countries like the Sultanate of Oman ultra luxury tourism projects were started only recently While the construction of artificial islands theme parks and prestige sport facilities has attracted considerable attention much less is known about the region s widespread implementation of innovative infrastructure such as global container ports free zones inter island causeways and metro lines This volume argues that these endeavours are not simply part of a strategy to prepare for the post oil era for future economic survival and prosperity in the Lower Gulf region but that they are also aiming to strengthen identitarian patterns and specific national brands In doing so they exhibit similar yet remarkably diverse modes of engaging with certain global trends and present questionably distinct ideas for putting themselves on the global map Each country aims to grab attention with regard to the world wide flow of goods and capital and thus provide its own citizens with a socially acceptable trajectory for the future By doing that the countries in the Gulf are articulating a new semiotic and paradigm of urban development For the first time this volume maps these trends in their relation to architecture and infrastructure in particular by treating them as semiotics in their own right It suggests that recent developments in this region of the world not only represent Communicative Constructions and the Refiguration of Spaces Gabriela B. Christmann, Martina Löw, Hubert Knoblauch, 2021-12 Through a variety of empirical studies this volume offers fresh insights into the manner in which different forms of communicative action transform urban space With attention to the methodological questions that arise from the attempt to study such changes empirically it offers new theoretical foundations for understanding the social construction and re construction of spaces through communicative action Seeing communicative action as the basic element in the social construction of reality and conceptualising communication not only in terms of the use of language and texts but as involving any kind of objectification such as technologies bodies and non verbal signs it considers the roles of both direct and mediated or digitised communication An examination of the conceptualisation of the communicative re construction of spaces and the means by which this change might be empirically investigated this book demonstrates the fruitfulness of the notion of refiguration as a means by which to understand the transformation of contemporary societies As such it will appeal to sociologists social theorists and geographers with interests in social construction and urban space

The production of Urban Space, Temporality, and Spatiality Bernard Gauthiez, 2020-05-05 The production of urban space is scarcely studied by scholars in historical and urban studies the city being still predominantly seen as a frame in which activities and social relationship develop not a produce in itself The scope of the book is the comprehension of this production This implies an adequate conceptualisation of the way urban space can be measured and broken down in units which can be put in relation with social processes and agents A first part examines the concepts and their implications The second part deals with the anthropology and typology of architectural production considered in relation to demography The third part develops on the rhythms of the space production at Lyon from the late 15th century to the 19th The temporalities and spatialities of the production are determined and examined The agents of the production are studied all along the period in parallel to the market aimed at investors in real estate tenants activities Each phenomenon identified can be described and understood as in the meantime a temporal spatial and social unit

The Design of Urban Space Richard M. Cartwright,1980 The Law Relating to Public Health, Local Government and Urban and Rural Sanitary Authorities William Cunningham Glen,1874 Counteracting the Neoliberal City Michaela De Marco,2025-09-22 This book presents a groundbreaking theoretical and methodological framework for analyzing urban phenomena and urban policies and a pioneering approach to urban regeneration projects The text advocates for an Integral and Recognitive Urban Regeneration of public spaces in cities to confront current neoliberal urban policies which have been ineffective in achieving genuine overall wellbeing in contemporary urban environments Integral and Recognitive Urban Regeneration is a macro process composed of several micro contextualized urban projects that account for the complexity of urban spaces This process goes beyond merely enhancing the aesthetics and functionality of architectural spaces rather presenting itself as an educational community oriented cooperative creative socializing eco friendly multidisciplinary and transdisciplinary process that serves as a platform for regenerating compromised ecosystems promoting the cognitive psychological emotional social and political empowerment of resident communities and addressing local and global forms of social and ecological injustice As such this book is an essential resource for students researchers academics and experienced planners alike
