Civil Calendar and Lunar Calendar in Ancient Egypt Leo Depuydt,1997 This investigation is concerned with ancient Egyptian calendars Its specific focus is one of the oldest problems of the study of these calendars the so called problem of the month names This work s main purpose is to suggest an explanation for the Brugsch phenomenon The Brugsch phenomenon is one of the two main aspects of the problem of the month names The other is the Gardiner phenomenon No new theory is presented for the Gardiner phenomenon As a problem the Brugsch phenomenon is slightly older than the Gardiner Phenomenon It has occupied center stage in the study of ancient Egyptian calendars since the early days of this endeavor In 1870 Heinrich

Brugsch the great pioneer in this subject wrote about the phenomenon Here we encounter all at once the most curious contradiction Just recently Rolf Krauss has described the contradiction as still unsolved The Brugsch phenomenon concerns the indisputable fact that the last or twelfth month of the Egyptian civil year can be named as if it were the first Two month names are involved The first is wp rnpt Its meaning opener of the year refers to a beginning The second month name is mswt

Asteroid Answers to Ancient Calendar Mysteries Herbert B. Stollorz,2008-07-03 Ancient calendars found around the world are designed to end one point in time They communicate an urgent warning to everyone alive today Complex bronze and gold clocks with multiple dials are found in museums around the world Why they have such advanced intricacy has stumped scientists for hundreds of years This book reveals why the ancients built so many pyramids observatories as well as those complex gold and bronze clocks with more than one dial It surprised me greatly to discover that their various complex designs in one way or another converge on 21 December 2012 It amazes me that ancient cultures separated by thousands of miles of geography and thousands of years in chronology agree so precisely in the cyclical nature of time history and prophecy which is history written in advance The most famous example is the Mayan Aztec calendar which ends its 25 626 year cycle on that momentous date Some researchers have also found 21 December 2012 in what is called the Bible Code Using very different research methods I discovered it in the Bible s book of Revelation and Daniel s prophecies It is one of the most important dates in the plan of God for all humanity The Ethics of the Colonization of Mars Sifwat Ali,2011-08-23 In order to start a discussion on any new idea or even a proposal a baseline must be established It is a bit like going to a psychiatrist and asking for a diagnosis on a human subject The psychiatrist must conduct a series of tests to determine the subjects baseline condition to see how the neurons are firing In this chapter we will attempt to baseline our knowledge of the day and see what inspires the biological life to explore to plan to go and to aspire to move to a different planet Let us think of a giant spaceship named paradise In this spaceship there is a group of beings including man that has disobeyed the commander The commander must evict this group from the paradise per the rules of the spaceship So the commander looks for a suitable planet Let us call this planet the Earth The spaceship hovers over the Earth The commander lays down the law to this group and says get down He then foretells them more bad news that some of you will be the enemies of the other i e you will shed each others blood At the end of the verdict he gives them a little good news and for you this Earth is the destination and has in it all the provisions that you will need to survive for a time Well That time is up the time has come for the biological life on Earth to start a journey in the cosmos on its own strength and the first steps have already been taken 1 1 The Urge to Explore The urge to explore and to multiply takes a Monarch Butterfly from Canada across the United States to Mexico some two thousand miles Its wings barely span a few inches and the body weighs not even a quarter of an ounce and yet it fearlessly soars across the Great Lakes and into the Great Plains facing every predator and hostile elements that are unthinkable from its point of view The pilgrimage happens every year and the Day of Judgment arrives for a generation of the monarchs with the same frequency There is grace and beauty in this exploration It has in it a goal it has in it full success and it has new life It has in it the beautiful death of the old and after the burial the beginning of a new sacred mission of the next generation Then there is a species of fish collectively known as Salmon They lay their eggs in freshwater streams typically at high latitudes The eggs hatch and evolve in various forms staying from one to three years in their fresh water stream Ah it is estimated that only 10% of all salmon eggs survive to this stage Then they move to an area of the water in the direction of the ocean which is more brackish than fresh allowing the body chemistry to change to live in salt water In science this process is called Osmoregulation They then proceed to the open ocean and live there for as long as four years They endure a dangerous predatory world and under heavy ocean pressures explore a new world Close to the end they mature sexually and when that happens they march to a sacred pilgrimage with the only sense of the regeneration of life and return to the fresh waters they came from Some of these fresh water streams are as far away as a thousand miles both from the Pacific and in the Atlantic Oceans Swimming a thousand miles against the currents under water is like flying a hundred thousand miles in the air In moving back to the birth place they journey upstream continuously struggling but never losing the urge to arrive at the spawning site even as they sense other members being devoured by a host of predators After spawning after completing their sacred journey they gracefully die and the next generation takes over Let us now move to another part of the Planet Earth deep down in the Mariana Trench roughly thirty six thousand feet deep in the Pacific Ocean in fact so deep that if Mount Everest were to be submerged totally in it all of roughly twenty nine thousand feet we will still have seven thousand feet of water left above it At the bottom of the trench the pressure is roughly 15000 psi and that is over one thousand times that of the normal atmospheric pressure The Miracle of Life still exists without light and without the warmth of the Sun The organism and life sustains itself from the warmth derived out of the core of the Earth There are single celled organisms that are thought to resemble some of the world s earliest life forms They may be single celled called foraminifera but there are an estimated 4 000 species living They inhabit a wide range of marine environments mostly on the ocean bottom The discovery at this depth of these foraminifera living in dirt surprised even the scientists from Japans Agency for Marine Earth Science and Technology who led the exploration School Executives Magazine ,1929 Journal of Calendar Reform ,1951
