larger historical and conceptual spaces Audry debunks myths about machine learning art including the ideas that machine learning can create art without artists and that machine learning will soon bring about superhuman intelligence and creativity Audry considers learning procedures describing how artists hijack the training process by playing with evaluative functions discusses trainable machines and models explaining how different types of machine learning systems enable different kinds of artistic practices and reviews the role of data in machine learning art showing how artists use data as a raw material to steer learning systems and arguing that machine learning allows for novel forms of algorithmic remixes

Artificial General Intelligence 2008 P. Wang, B. Goertzel, S. Franklin, 2008-02-18 The field of Artificial Intelligence AI was initially directly aimed at the construction of thinking machines that is computer systems with human like general intelligence But this task proved more difficult than expected As the years passed AI researchers gradually shifted focus to producing AI systems that intelligently approached specific tasks in relatively narrow domains In recent years however more and more AI researchers have recognized the necessity and the feasibility of returning to the original goal of the field Increasingly there is a call to focus less on highly specialized narrow AI problem solving systems and more on confronting the difficult issues involved in creating human level intelligence and ultimately general intelligence that goes beyond the human level in various ways Artificial General Intelligence AGI as this renewed focus has come to be called attempts to study and reproduce intelligence as a whole in a domain independent way Encouraged by the recent success of several smaller scale AGI related meetings and special tracks at conferences the initiative to organize the very first international conference on AGI was taken with the goal to give researchers in the field an opportunity to present relevant research results and to exchange ideas on topics of common interest In this collection you will find the conference papers full length papers short position statements and also the papers presented in the post conference workshop on the sociocultural ethical and futurological implications of AGI
