Edwards Lester,2016-11-07 Excerpt from The Artists of America A Series of Biographical Sketches of American Artists With Portraits and Designs on Steel The immediate object of this Series of Biographical Sketches is to make Our Artists and their Works better known at home Abroad this is not necessary for there they have always been better known and better appreciated than in their own country The names of such men as West Allston Durand and Powers are a sufficient pledge of the truth of this statement While every American of taste and of national feeling is proud of Our Artists he blushes when this fact is told It does not reflect much credit upon us it seems to me to have it said and with too much truth too that no American Artist can get bread at home till he has won fame abroad I have long believed that the insensibility of the nation to the claims of Art and Artists was more owing to a lack of information on these subjects than to any perhaps all other causes and I have long desired to see this want supplied with some work uniting beauty of execution and cheapness of price with authenticity of facts to secure for it general circulation Artists themselves will not do it although well qualified for the task perhaps they could not do it without suffering however unjustly unkind imputations No one else seems inclined to make an attempt and I have resolved to try it myself About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are

Thomas Hart Benton's America Today The Metropolitan Museum of Art Bulletin, v. 72, no. 3 (Winter, 2015) Randall R. Griffey, Elizabeth Mankin Kornhauser, Stephanie L. Herdrich, Shawn Digney-Peer, Cynthia Moyer, 2015-03-16 Thomas Hart Benton is often recognized as the leader of the 1930s movement known as Regionalism which celebrated rural life in the United States. However, he lived and worked primarily in New York from 1912 to 1935, one of the most vibrant and dynamic periods in the city's history. It was also a critical time for Benton's artistic development as he gradually established and set on the course that would define his career: one characterized by a passionate commitment to public art, populist subject matter, and a distinctively expressive figurative style rooted predominantly in European Mannerism. The pinnacle of Benton's New York years was the mural cycle he painted for the newly erected headquarters of the New School for Social Research at 66 West 12th Street, which opened to the public in January 1931. Called America Today, the mural was his first significant commission for an institution, raised Benton's artistic stature not only in New York but also nationwide, setting the stage for his appearance in December 1934 on the cover of Time magazine, the first time an artist was accorded that honor. This Bulletin reveals the many remarkable stories that America Today has to tell and presents new discoveries about Benton's epic cycle. The essay and entries contained in these pages elucidate the mural's rich content, particularly Benton's celebration of the Machine Age and American progress in the 1920s.

Book of the Artists Henry Theodore Tuckerman, 1966 Twentieth-Century American Art Erika Doss, 2002-04-26 Jackson Pollock, Georgia O'Keeffe, Andy Warhol, Julian Schnabel, and Laurie Anderson are just some of the major American artists of the twentieth century. From the 1893 Chicago World's Fair to the 2000 Whitney Biennial, a rapid succession of art movements and different styles reflected the extreme changes in American culture and society, as well as America's position within the international art world. This exciting new look at twentieth-century American art explores the relationships between American art museums and audiences in the century that came to be called the American century. Extending beyond New York, it covers the emergence of Feminist art in Los Angeles in the 1970s, the Black art movement, the expansion of galleries and art schools, and the highly political public controversies surrounding arts funding. All the key movements are fully discussed, including early American Modernism, the New Negro movement, Regionalism, Abstract Expressionism, Pop Art, and Neo-Expressionism.
