Lynn, 1928 American Bungalow, 2003 The Craftsman and the Critic Beverly Kay Brandt, 2009 When English craftsman poet and socialist William Morris advised consumers in the 1880s to have nothing in your houses that you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful he prompted a movement for design reform in Britain Europe and America Championing Morris's views the Society of Arts and Crafts in Boston led the quest for usefulness and beauty in the United States As the oldest arts and crafts organization in the country it exerted considerable influence Among the Boston reformers were design critics whose profession became increasingly important in the nineteenth century Many of them including a number of prominent women were also architects designers craft workers educators and theorists Their views on design reform were substantive and often controversial This richly illustrated book explores the interaction of craft workers and critics as they collaborated to improve the quality of the living and working environment in Boston and across the United States Beverly K Brandt examines multiple overlapping topics the evolution of the profession of design criticism in the nineteenth century Boston in the Gilded Age as a center for reform epitomized by the Aesthetic and the Arts and Crafts movements the formative years of the Society of Arts and Crafts 1897 1917 key personalities associated with that organization the theoretical underpinnings of the Arts and Crafts movement and a diaspora of Boston reformers who left the city to promote usefulness and beauty across the country and abroad In an epilogue she discusses the Arts and Crafts revival which has flourished since the 1970s and contemplates why the search for usefulness and beauty continues to resonate today
