As Citizenship:

Globalizing Citizenship Kim Rygiel, 2011-01-01 The events of 9 11 exposed and enhanced tensions between global capitalism and the nation state Governments struggle more than ever to govern populations and manage cross border traffic without building new barriers to trade and commerce What does citizenship mean in this context Is it in crisis Kim Rygiel explores these questions by examining border and detention policies in the United States the United Kingdom Canada and Australia as part of a larger politics of citizenship that preceded 9 11 Building on Foucault s concept of biopolitics she argues that citizenship is becoming a globalizing regime to govern mobility as nations harmonize border and detention policies outsource state functions to international organizations and private companies and rely on technologies of governing to discipline the body The new mobility regime is not only deepening boundaries based on race class and gender it is causing Western nations to embrace a more technocratic depoliticized understanding of citizenship Migrant Women Transforming Citizenship Umut Erel, 2016-04-22 Migrant Women Transforming Citizenship develops essential insights concerning the notion of transnational citizenship by means of the life stories of skilled and educated migrant women from Turkey in Germany and Britain It interweaves and develops theories of citizenship identity and culture with the lived experiences of an immigrant group that has so far received insufficient attention By focusing on the British and German contexts it introduces a much needed European and comparative perspective whilst exploring the ways in which diverging concepts and policies of citizenship allow for a differentiated examination of ethnicity gender multiculturalism and citizenship in Europe Presenting a significant and welcome contribution to our understanding of the complexities of multiculturalism it challenges Orientalist images of women as backward and oppressed Through engagement with the changing realities of education work intimacy family and social activism this volume provides a situated account of how the concepts of citizenship transnationality and culture play out in actual social relations With its rich empirical material the book explores how migrant women create new practices and meanings of belonging across boundaries Critiquing dominant multiculturalist and anti multiculturalist accounts this book suggests how citizenship debates can be reframed to be inclusive of migrant women as actors As such it will appeal to those working across a range of social sciences including sociology and the sociology of work race and ethnicity citizenship cultural and gender studies as well as anthropology and social and public policy From Migrants to Citizens T. Alexander Aleinikoff, Douglas Klusmeyer, 2013-01-25 Citizenship policies are changing rapidly in the face of global migration trends and the inevitable ethnic and racial diversity that follows The debates are fierce What should the requirements of citizenship be How can multi ethnic states forge a collective identity around a common set of values beliefs and practices What are appropriate criteria for admission and rights and duties of citizens This book includes nine case studies that investigate immigration and citizenship in Australia the Baltic States Canada the European Union Israel Mexico Russia South Africa and the United States This complete collection of essays scrutinizes the concrete rules and policies by which states administer citizenship and highlights similarities and differences in their policies From Migrants to Citizens the only comprehensive guide to citizenship policies in these liberal democratic and emerging states will be an invaluable reference for scholars in law political science and citizenship theory Policymakers and government officials involved in managing citizenship policy in the United States and abroad will find this an excellent accessible overview of the critical dilemmas that multi ethnic societies face as a result of migration and global interdependencies at the end of the twentieth century

Citizens and borderwork in contemporary Europe Chris Rumford, 2013-10-31 The extent to which ordinary people can construct shift and dismantle borders is seriously neglected in the existing literature The book explores the ability of citizens to participate in the making of borders and the empowerment that can result from this bordering and debordering activity Borderwork is the name given to the ways in which ordinary people can make and unmake borders Borderwork is no longer only the business of nation states it is also the business of citizens and indeed non citizens This study of borderwork extends the recent interest in forms of bordering which do not necessarily occur at the state's external borders However the changing nature of borders cannot be reduced to a shift from the edges to the interior of a polity To date little research has been conducted on the role of ordinary people in envisioning constructing maintaining shifting and erasing borders creating borders which facilitate mobility for some while creating barriers to mobility for others appropriating the political resources which bordering offers contesting the legitimacy of or undermining the borders imposed by others This book makes an original contribution to the literature and stands to set the agenda for a new dimension of border studies This book was published as a special issue of Space and Polity
