Ascites, Hyponatremia and Hepatorenal Syndrome: Progress in Treatment A. L. Gerbes, 2010-12-21 Ascites is the most frequent and hepatorenal syndrome the most lethal complication in liver cirrhosis In recent years major progress has been made regarding effective treatment of these complications thus reducing mortality in patients This publication highlights and critically appraises recent achievements and novel advances and at the same time provides the background needed to grasp novel concepts Topics treated include complications of paracentesis the right choice of plasma expanders and selection of patients who will experience survival benefit from transjugular intrahepatic portosystemic shunt Hepatorenal syndrome on the other hand is responsible for a broad spectrum of manifestations caused by acute kidney injury which until recently was considered a lethal condition Drug treatments to improve renal function and prolong survival are therefore also discussed including important issues for clinical outcome which are still under debate Moreover the role of combined kidney liver transplantation versus conventional liver only transplantation is addressed as well as the use of vaptans in hyponatremia and their controversial role in the treatment of ascites Renowned experts share their knowledge and expertise and provide an international perspective Their contributions include up to date references and a bullet point summary making this publication most valuable for practitioners clinicians and scientists in the field

Extrahepatic Manifestations in Liver Diseases R. Schmid, 1993-06-30 The liver is of central importance to the entire organism due to its diverse functions in metabolism its ability to detoxify and excrete the hepatic formation and inactivation of mediators and its involvement in non specific defence mechanisms Thus extrahepatic manifestations of liver disease are often decisive for the disease course In the last few years knowledge about interaction between the liver and other organs or systems e g kidneys GI tract skeleton endocrine haematopoietic and nervous systems has increased considerably Thus many extrahepatic manifestations of liver disease can now be better understood and are more accessible to diagnosis and therapy The IXth International Congress on Liver Diseases brought together experts from around the world to give information on new developments in this field which are important both for research and clinical work These proceedings will therefore be required reading for all researchers and clinicians dealing with effects of liver diseases on the entire organism Clinical Lectures on Diseases of the Liver Charles Murchison, 1885 Oxford Textbook of Clinical Nephrology Alex M. Davison, 1998 The first edition of the Oxford Textbook of Clinical Nephrology established itself as the leading clinical reference text for practicing nephrologists worldwide The second edition comes five years later during which time there have been significant advances in the understanding of the pathogenesis of renal disease and in therapy Placing existing treatment on a firm scientific basis or stopping ineffective or dangerous treatment is as important as introducing proven new therapies and all the contributors have taken this fully into account During the development of the second edition all the first edition chapters were critically reviewed by practicing nephrologists and their suggestions have been incorporated to make the text even more practically useful and logically arranged Expert topic editors for pediatrics pathology physiology and pharmacology have checked all relevant sections from their own perspective This edition is the only major textbook of nephrology to be printed in full colour throughout Reproduction of the histological and clinical illustrations in their natural colours reveals their true significance and there are numerous new colour illustrations There are new chapters on Imaging tactics a rationale Structural basis of glomerular function Symptomless patient with abnormal urine Immunotactoid fibrillary nephritis Mechanisms of interstitial disease and Host factors in the pathogenesis of urinary tract infection The sections on acute and chronic renal failure have been reorganized with new chapters on the Epidemiology of acute renal failure Dialysis and haemoperfusion treatment in acute poisoning and Genesis of the uraemic syndrome In addition the chapter on

Gastrointestinal effects in chronic renal failure includes a new discussion of the various forms of hepatitis A new section on Acute renal failure in special settings includes new chapters on pregnancy tropical illness and the elderly In the inherited diseases section there is a new chapter on Inherited disorders of purine metabolism and in the structural diseases section a new chapter on Medullary sponge kidney The section on malignant disease has new chapters on Tumours of the bladder and Tumours of the prostate The result is an outstanding up to date international clinical text which no clinical nephrologist can afford to be without
