Asia Pacific Crossroads:

Asia-Pacific Crossroads Vinod K. Aggarwal, Charles Edward Morrison, 1998 As perhaps the world's most economically dynamic region the Asia Pacific is generating increasing attention from academic business and policymaking circles alike The most ambitious attempt at regime creation in this region began in 1989 with the formation of the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation forum APEC Asia Pacific Crossroads provides a novel theoretical approach to examine the interplay of economic political and security factors in APEC's evolution It focuses on the likelihood of APEC becoming smoothly nested within the World Trade Organization and considers how subregional groupings in the Asia Pacific might in turn become nested within APEC Book jacket

Remapping East Asia T. J. Pempel, 2018-08-06 An overarching ambiguity characterizes East Asia today The region has at least a century long history of internal divisiveness war and conflict and it remains the site of several nettlesome territorial disputes However a mixture of complex and often competing agents and processes has been knitting together various segments of East Asia In Remapping East Asia T J Pempel suggests that the region is ripe for cooperation rather than rivalry and that recent region building developments in East Asia have had a substantial cumulative effect on the broader canvas of international politics This collection is about the people processes and institutions behind that region building In it experts on the area take a broad approach to the dynamics and implications of regionalism Instead of limiting their focus to security matters they extend their discussions to topics as diverse as the mercurial nature of Japan's leadership role in the region Southeast Asian business networks the war on terrorism in Asia and the political economy of environmental regionalism Throughout they show how nation states corporations and problem specific coalitions have furthered regional cohesion not only by establishing formal institutions but also by operating informally semiformally or even secretly
