Documentary, World History, and National Power in the PRC Gotelind Mueller, 2013-10-30 Documentaries have recently become a favourite format for Chinese state directed media to present an officially sanctioned view of history. Indeed, this is not confined to Chinese national history. In stark contrast to the earlier self-centred preoccupation with Chinese history, there has been an upsurge in interest in foreign history with a view to illuminating China's role not only in world history but also on the global stage today and in the future. This book examines three recent Chinese documentary television series which present the officially sanctioned view of the rise of the modern West, the reasons for the end of the Soviet Union and the legitimisation of the present day Chinese government via a specific reading of modern Chinese history to argue for a Chinese rise in the future. With a focus on these documentaries, Gotelind Mueller discusses how history is presented on screen and explores the function of visual history for memory culture and wider society. Further, this book reveals how the presentation of Chinese and foreign history in a global framework impacts on the officially transmitted views on Self and Other and thus provides a keen insight into how the Chinese themselves regard their global rise. Documentary World History and National Power in the PRC will be welcomed by students and scholars working across a number of fields including Chinese studies, East Asian studies, media studies, television studies, history and memory studies. Stephen P. Gibert, William M. Carpenter, 1989-03-08 This book documents the history of U.S. Republic of China relations over the past forty years with the emphasis on the decade from 1979 under the Taiwan Relations Act (TRA). It includes all the important documents concerning American relations with Taiwan together with illustrative selections of less important documents since the establishment in 1949 of the Republic of China on the island of Taiwan. The major portion of the documents relate to the past decade following the passage by the U.S. Congress of the TRA. This law, which dictates close U.S. relations with a non-recognized nation, offers for examination a unique experiment in American diplomatic history. The People's Republic of China Mark Selden, Patti Eggleston, 1979
