Chinas Tibet Policy:

China's Tibet Policy Dawa Norbu, 2001-09-27 This major study analyses the traditional modes of Sino Tibetan relations in order to unearth general patterns beyond partisan points of view It sheds light on contemporary issues in the Sino Tibetan dialogue and discerns possible future structures for conflict resolution in occupied Tibet With its economic reforms China is changing and will ch

China's Tibet? Warren W. Smith, 2009 This groundbreaking book explores China's efforts to assimilate Tibet in the process rewriting Tibetan history to conform to Beijing's goals Warren W Smith Jr provides the historical context for understanding the current situation through an overview of China's actual as opposed to its promised policies toward Tibet over time His clear eyed appraisal of Chinese policy convincingly shows that the PRC's ultimate intention is assimilation rather than autonomy The author argues that Beijing fears that any genuine autonomy or dialogue with the Dalai Lama will fuel renewed nationalism in China's Tibet as the Chinese leadership calls its possession The book highlights China's past and current propaganda on Tibet to demonstrate China's sensitivity and defensiveness regarding the legitimacy of its rule It traces the history of Sino Tibetan dialogue to show how China has tried to use it to defuse Tibetan exile and international criticism while making no concessions in regard to Tibetan autonomy In the absence of any solution Smith advocates the promotion of Tibet's right to self determination as the most viable strategy for sustaining international attention and maintaining the most essential elements of Tibetan national identity Smith's thoroughly informed work will be valuable not only to Tibet experts and students but also to the larger world of Tibet activists sympathizers and others attempting to understand China's policies

China's Policy on Tibetan Autonomy Warren W. Smith, 2004

Beijing's Tibet Policy Allen Carlson, 2004 This paper examines the main contours of Beijing's Tibet policy since the start of the reform era 1979 to the present It argues that throughout this period China's position on Tibet has always been concerned with defending Chinese sovereignty more specifically jurisdictional sovereignty over the region Since 1979 the ways in which the Chinese acted to secure such rights however have varied significantly in two distinct phases During the initial phase in the late 1970s and early 1980s the Chinese position was marked by the implementation of relatively moderate policies In the second phase which began in late 1987 and continues today the Chinese position on Tibet has been defined by highly critical discursive moves pointed diplomatic activity a renewed commitment to use force to silence all opposition to Chinese rule and the utilization of economic development programs to augment such efforts This essay contends that three forces were crucial in determining Chinese policy on Tibet during these two periods the underlying strategic value of Tibet to Beijing within the regional security dynamic the persistence of historically conditioned sovereign centric values within elite circles in China and the internal and external pressures created by Deng Xiaoping's reform and opening line The complexity of these factors suggests that understanding how Beijing acts vis a vis Tibet requires that students of international relations and security studies as well as policymakers and activists look beyond parsimonious explanations and single faceted policy directions

when considering the Tibet Issue This is the fourth publication in Policy Studies a peer reviewed East West Center Washington series that presents scholarly analysis of key contemporary domestic and international political economic and strategic issues affecting Asia in a policy relevant manner China's Tibet Policy Dawa Norbu,1995 China's Tibet ,1990 The Ideological Basis of China's Tibet Policy Warren W. Smith,1988* Critical Assessment of China's Vulnerabilities in Tibet Mandip Singh,2013 The paper looks at the critical vulnerabilities of China in the Tibetan Autonomous Region Ever since China captured and annexed Tibet in 1950 it has been unable to integrate the Tibetan people with the mainland There is a trust deficit essentially socio economic factors and religious persecution that continues to fuel dissent between the Tibetan people and the Chinese government Besides Tibetans have a proud legacy of taking to arms to fight for their rights which is presently latent Militarily the high altitude and inhospitable terrain render communications vulnerable and impose severe limitations to conduct of operations in TAR The author looks at these criticalities from an Indian viewpoint and draws some key assessments for China watchers in India with regard to policy on Tibet Travels of a Consular Officer in Eastern Tibet Eric Teichman,1922 Tibet and China Kerry Dumbaugh,1996 Travels of a Consular Officer in Eastern Tibet Sir Eric Teichman,1922 China's Tibet Policy Braj Kishore Prasad Singh,2009 The North-China Herald and Supreme Court and Consular Gazette ,1910 The Republican Advocate ,1912 The World's Chinese Students' Journal ,1912 The China Year Book Henry George Wandesforde Woodhead, Henry Thurburn Montague Bell,1914 India's China Policy Vis-a-Vis India's Tibet Policy Savera Sharma,2014-07-22 After independence the Indian Government had desired and formulated its China policy and at the same time the Nehru Government had clearly outlined its Tibet policy but the two policies came in each other s way and the repercussions were felt by India China and Tibet The book systemically tries to resolve India China Tibet triangle The Tibetan uprising of 1959 and the turmoil of 2008 are systemically compared along with India s perspective proving the reader with a greater insight into the complexities of these interrelationships Sufficient Parliamentary debates from the Indian perspective not only explain the functioning of the Parliamentary democracy but sheds the myth that in Cabinet form of Government the ruling party having absolute majority can do anything that it likes as the role and impact of domestic factors in influencing the decision making of Government has been logically proved The book will thus be of great interest to not only the students of International Relations foreign policy and South Asian politics but also to diplomats and policy makers The CIA's Secret War in Tibet Kenneth J. Conboy,James Morrison,2002 In one of the most remote covert campaigns of the cold war the CIA harnessed nurtured and encouraged the Khampa tribesmen of Tibet in their defiance against Chinese subjugation This is the first time the story has been told Millard's China National Review ,1919 The National Review, China ,1912
