Dorn, Wang Xi, Cato Institute, 1990-11-29 In this volume distinguished Chinese and Western scholars provide a detailed examination of the problems associated with China's transition to a market oriented system A variety of reform proposals aimed at resolving the contradictions inherent in piecemeal reform are discussed along with the chances for future liberalization These clearly written and insightful essays address the roots of China's crisis The authors focus on institutional changes necessary for a spontaneous market order and point to the close relation between economic reform and political constitutional reform Topics include the speed and degree of the transition whether ownership reform must precede price reform how inflation can be avoided steps to depoliticize economic life how to create an environment conducive to foreign trade and investment and how to institute basic constitutional change and open China to the outside world The revolutionary changes now shaking the foundations of socialism and central planning in the Soviet Union and Eastern and Central Europe are sure to have an impact on China's future Despite their seriousness the events of Tiananmen Square may constitute only a temporary detour on the road toward a private market order The essays in this volume help lay a rational framework for understanding China's present problems and for discussing the prospects for future reform Challenges for China's Development David Brown, Alasdair MacBean, 2005-06-23 The pace of reform for China's enterprises of all kinds has quickened as they seek to cope with the challenges of self determination in a rapidly evolving context of difficult social and welfare changes and the realities of increasing global competition This book explores these challenges from the perspective of the enterprise It includes discussion of current and likely future overall trends reports on new research findings on the true extent of governance and accounting reforms within enterprises and considers the impact of increasing global competition on strategy business relationships and management culture in a range of different kinds of enterprises Economic Development and Inequality in China Hong Yu, 2017-09-29 The conventional belief that all regions have equally benefited from China's remarkable development over the last three decades is subjected to criticism in this book as Hong Yu systematically analyses the issue of regional inequality during the post 1978 period using the case of Guangdong Guangdong is one of the key industrial centres and economic powerhouses in China and as a pioneer province instigating economic reform as China opened up to the world it offers an ideal focus upon which to question and enrich the Western theories of economic geography and regional disparity Based on field research analysis of geographic characteristics and regression models this book illustrates how Guangdong's impressive development record has been marred by its rising regional disparity investigates the main causes of this disparity and draws conclusions regarding the lessons China can learn
