Chinas Spatial Economy Recent Developments And Reforms:

China's Spatial Economy John H. Fincher, 1990 During the period of economic policy reform from the mid 1970s to the late 1980s China experimented with new forms of socialism embraced new technologies introduced reforms to rural and industrial productive enterprises and the country opened up to the Western world By looking at issues associated with regional development transport population distribution and the large cities this volume demonstrates how the space economy responded to economic reforms as well as acting as a shock absorber for some of the more profound swings in policy This study should be of interest to scholars in geography urban studies and China studies China's Rural Market Development in the Reform Era Him Chung, 2017-11-30 The rural market in China is not only the venue where 60 per cent of the country's 1.3 billion inhabitants buy their daily necessities and sell agricultural products but also a key area of conflict between government control and liberalization policies Previous research on the topic has adopted a purely economic perspective focusing on macro issues such as price control and grain procurement This book focuses instead on peasants the major participants in rural marketing activities Illustrated by two comparative case studies with a diverse level of development from the Pearl River Delta one of the most prosperous regions in coastal China this book investigates the market hierarchy its change of functions and the interactions between peasants and market outlets In doing so it shows how China's rural market district has changed since the Reform and how these changes affect the marketing activities of peasants China's New Spatial Economy G. J. R. Linge, 1997 As China becomes more and more market oriented the spatial development dilemmas it encounters are more and more like those one finds in capitalist nations This book an updated edition of China's Spatial Economy OUP 1990 both illustrates and examines the growing differences between and within the increasingly diverse regions of China The contributors to this volume look to the future of China's major economic regions in light of the numerous problems this country now faces Also they show how these problems are affecting various parts of China in different ways Pioneering Economic Reform in China's Special Economic Zones Weiping Wu, 2018-08-17 First published in 1999 this volume assessed the economic situation of Shenzhen in Guangdong Province China including its trade connections with Hong Kong and foreign investments in the area Designated as one of four Special Economic Zones (SEZ) as part of China's domestic economic reform in 1979 Weiping Wu examines Shenzhen's economic situation in the context of Hong Kong's transition just two years prior to publication in 1997 Wu explores the developments in Shenzhen in local policy labor costs export performance domestic linkages and complementarity with Hong Kong as a result of Hong Kong's closer connection with the Shenzhen trade area Shenzhen's suitability can then be assessed in its role as an SEZ to experiment with and digest western technology and management techniques for inland China and as a buffer between China and the wider world Economic Development and Inequality in China Hong Yu, 2017-09-29 The conventional belief that all regions have equally benefited from China's remarkable development over the last three decades is subjected to criticism in this book as Hong Yu systematically analyses the issue of regional inequality during the post 1978 period using the case of Guangdong. Guangdong is one of the key industrial centres and economic powerhouses in China and as a pioneer province instigating economic reform as China opened up to the world it offers an ideal focus upon which to question and enrich the Western theories of economic geography and regional disparity. Based on field research analysis of geographic characteristics and regression models this book illustrates how Guangdong's impressive development record has been marred by its rising regional disparity. It investigates the main causes of this disparity and draws conclusions regarding the lessons China can learn from it. Economic Development and Inequality in China will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese economics, Chinese regional studies, economic geography and China Studies. Hong Yu is a Visiting Research Fellow at the National University of Singapore. His research interests lie in the field of regional economy. He is the author of a chapter on China's two delta regions in the book China and The Global Economic Crisis.

Provincial Strategies of Economic Reform in Post-Mao China Peter T.Y. Cheung, Jae Ho Chung, Zhimin Lin, 2016-12-05 Focusing on the role of provincial leadership in the initiation and implementation of economic reform this text studies economic decentralization in eight Chinese provinces. In each area resource allocation and acquisition of foreign capital and investment are investigated.

Policy Reform and Chinese Markets Belton M. Fleisher, 2008-03-31 The diverse contributors to this book provide a unique set of essays that evaluate legal regulatory and economic aspects of China's transition from planned to market economy.

Regionalisation and Integration in China Colin Brown, John Longworth, Scott Waldron, 2020-09-10 This title was first published in 2002. Changing economic institutional and market environments have turned the spatial inter relationships thought to exist in China upside down. Through an investigation of the beef industry this text builds a picture of where regionalization and integration are heading in China. It examines the impacts of market forces, industry characteristics, relative factor endowments and government influence on the spatial organization of activities. It reveals the influence of government as priorities are re-assessed and as markets and industries develop as well as exploring the extent of regional co-ordination and co-operation and how central and local government policies and strategies reconcile. The volume also contains regional assessments of the beef industry in 12 key producing provinces and the key consumption areas of Beijing, Shanghai and Hong Kong.
