Ireland and the New Architecture, 1900-1940 Sean Rothery, 1991 The first of its kind a history of Ireland s architecture in the early twentieth century with over 200 illustrations and photos

Ireland & the New Architecture Sean Rothery, 1989-01-01

Architecture like print is ubiquitous a part of the fabric of culture which touches every aspect of our lives while reflecting and articulating socio economic change As the twentieth century draws to a close the architecture inscribed in its early decades attracts ever closer scrutiny The design movements in fin de si cle Europe saw manifestations of modernism combine with unprecedented advances in technology and American machine culture emerging in a new architecture Viennese Rationalism supplanted free form Art Nouveau Beaux Arts gave way to Le Corbusier bizarre brick Expressionism of the Amsterdam School coexisted with De Stijl s bare abstractions Modern architecture in the form of the International Style of Gropius and the Bauhaus reached its apogee in the early 1930s but styles scorned by this orthodoxy Art Deco and stripped Classicism flourished alongside it and are now being reappraised

Ireland and the New Architecture 1900 1940 is the first comprehensive study of its subject It describes the pioneering buildings of the period and examines their intellectual scaffolding and the influence of international design movements demonstrating that Ireland was no architectural backwater as is often assumed It looks in detail at the writings and examples of early modernism and the way in which architects of a fledgling Free State went beyond Britain to France Holland Scandinavia Austria Germany and America for models of new structures in both private and public spheres of building A generous selection of over two hundred drawings and photographs along with extended interview material with survivors from the time give this book unique value It is both a stimulating work of reference and a survey guide to Ireland s position in and contribution to the mainstream of modern architecture

A New History of Ireland Volume VII J. R. Hill, 2003-12-04 A New History of Ireland is the largest scholarly project in modern Irish history In 9 volumes it provides a comprehensive new synthesis of modern scholarship on every aspect of Irish history and prehistory from the earliest geological and archaeological evidence through the Middle Ages down to the present day Volume VII covers a period of major significance in Ireland s history It outlines the division of Ireland and the eventual establishment of the Irish Republic It provides comprehensive coverage of political developments north and south as well as offering chapters on the economy literature in English and Irish the Irish language the visual arts emigration and immigration and the history of women The contributors to this volume all specialists in their field provide the most comprehensive treatment of these developments of any single volume survey of twentieth century Ireland

Infrastructure and the Architectures of Modernity in Ireland 1916-2016 Gary A. Boyd, John McLaughlin, 2016-12-05 At the formation of the new Republic of Ireland the construction of new infrastructures was seen as an essential element in the building of the new nation just as the adoption of international style modernism in architecture was perceived as a way to escape the colonial past Accordingly infrastructure became the physical manifestation the concrete identity of these objectives and architecture formed an integral part of this narrative Moving between scales and from artefact to context Infrastructure and the Architectures of Modernity in Ireland 1916 2016 provides critical insights and narratives on what is a complex and hitherto overlooked landscape one which is often as much international as it is Irish In doing so it explores the interaction between the universalising and globalising tendencies of modernisation on one hand and the textures of local architectures on the other The book shows how the nature of technology and infrastructure is inherently cosmopolitan Beginning with the building of the heroic Shannon hydro electric facility at Ardnacrusha by the German firm of Siemens Schuckert in the first decade of independence Ireland became a point of varying types of intersection between imported international expertise and local need Meanwhile at the other end of the century by the year 2000 Ireland had become one of the most globalized countries in the world site of the European headquarters of multinationals such as Google and Microsoft Climatically and economically expedient to the storing and harvesting of data Ireland has subsequently become a repository of digital information farmed in large single storey sheds absorbed into anonymous suburbs In 2013 it became the preferred site for Intel to design and develop its new microprocessor chip the Galileo The story of the decades in between of shifts made manifest in architecture and infrastructure from the policies of economic protectionism to the opening up of the country to direct foreign investment and the embracing of the EU is one of the influx of technologies and cultural references into a small country on the edges of Europe as Ireland became both a launch pad and testing ground for a series of aspects of designed modernity

Housing, Architecture and the Edge Condition Ellen Rowley, 2018-11-02 This book presents an architectural overview of Dublin s mass housing building boom from the 1930s to the 1970s During this period Dublin Corporation built tens of thousands of two storey houses developing whole communities from virgin sites and green fields at the city s edge while tentatively building four storey flat blocks in the city centre Author Ellen Rowley examines how and why this endeavour occurred Asking questions around architectural and urban obsolescence she draws on national political and social histories as well as looking at international architectural histories and the influence of post war reconstruction programmes in Britain or the symbolisation of the modern dwelling within the formation of the modern nation Critically the book tackles this housing history as an architectural and design narrative It explores the role of the architectural community in this frenzied provision of housing for the populace Richly illustrated with architectural drawings and photographs from contemporary journals and the private archives of Dublin based architectural practices this book will appeal to academics and researchers interested in the conditions surrounding Dublin s housing history
