King James and Letters of Homoerotic Desire David M. Bergeron,2002-04 What can we know of the private lives of early British sovereigns Through the unusually large number of letters that survive from King James VI of Scotland James I of England 1566 1625 we can know a great deal Using original letters primarily from the British Library and the National Library of Scotland David Bergeron creatively argues that James correspondence with certain men in his court constitutes a gospel of homoerotic desire Bergeron grounds his provocative study on an examination of the tradition of letter writing during the Renaissance and draws a connection between homosexual desire and letter writing during that historical period King James commissioner of the Bible translation that bears his name corresponded with three principal male favorites Esm Stuart Lennox Robert Carr Somerset and George Villiers Buckingham Esm Stuart James older French cousin arrived in Scotland in 1579 and became an intimate adviser and friend to the adolescent king Though Esm was eventually forced into exile by Scottish nobles his letters to James survive as does James hauntingly allegorical poem Phoenix The king s close relationship with Carr began in 1607 James letters to Carr reveal remarkable outbursts of sexual frustration and passion A large collection of letters exchanged between James and Buckingham in the 1620s provides the clearest evidence for James homoerotic desires During a protracted separation in 1623 letters between the two raced back and forth These artful self conscious letters explore themes of absence the pleasure of letters and a preoccupation with the body Familiar and sexual terms become wonderfully intertwined as when James greets Buckingham as my sweet child and wife King James and Letters of Homoerotic Desire presents a modern spelling edition of seventy five letters exchanged between Buckingham and James Across the centuries commentators have condemned the letters as indecent or repulsive Bergeron argues that on the contrary they reveal an inward desire of king and subject in a mutual exchange of love The Atlantic Monthly ,1906 Inland Printer, American Lithographer ,1927 Polyglot Texts and Translations in Early Modern Europe ,2025-02-27 Early modern culture was multilingual and so were many of the works produced across Europe and beyond its borders The contributors to this volume draw new interrelations between different humanistic traditions and multilingual and translational writing practices using a wide range of primary sources documents produced in Norwich scientific treatises by Galileo and Stevin travel accounts and dictionaries by James Howell translations and retranslations of Antoine de Nerv ze s moral letters Aljamiado documents and short comic plays in Spain Jesuit pedagogical theater in New France grammars dictionaries and historiographical accounts in missionary contexts and a mining law code in South Central Europe that highlight the significance of polyglossia in early modern cultural production and transmission Covering a wide range of languages including Latin Nahuatl and Turkish their analysis invites comparison with today s polyglot practices in a globalized world as we also adapt to new technologies and ever changing realities Censorship and Interpretation Annabel M. Patterson,1984 Annabel Patterson explores the effects of censorship on both writing and reading in early modern England drawing analogies and connections with France during the same period Epistolæ Ho-Eliaenæ James Howell,1892 Epistolæ Ho-Eliaenæ James Howell,1892 Saturday Review of Literature ,1928 The Bookman ,1908 Putnam's Monthly and the Critic ,1908 Putnam's Monthly & the Critic ,1908
