Cezanne Postcard Book Barnes Foundation Staff, 1998-09-30 Cezanne and Provence Nina M. Athanassoglou-Kallmyer, 2003-05 Discusses painter Paul Cezanne's 1886 departure from Paris to his native city Aix en Provence arguing that it was related to French regionalist politics of the time and shows how the move affected his art

Postcard Book Pavilion Books, Pavilion Books Staff, 1994-05-01 The Other Shore Michael Jackson, 2013 In this book ethnographer and poet Michael Jackson addresses the interplay between modes of writing modes of understanding and modes of being in the world Drawing on literary anthropological and autobiographical sources he explores writing as a technics akin to ritual oral storytelling magic and meditation that enables us to reach beyond the limits of everyday life and forge virtual relationships and imagined communities Although Maurice Blanchot wrote of the impossibility of writing the passion and paradox of literature lies in its attempt to achieve the impossible a leap of faith that calls to mind the mystic's dark night of the soul unrequited love nostalgic or utopian longing and the ethnographer's attempt to know the world from the standpoint of others to put himself or herself in their place Every writer whether of ethnography poetry or fiction imagines that his or her own experiences echo the experiences of others and that despite the need for isolation and silence his or her work consummates a relationship with them

Jean Madeleine Dunnigan, 2026-01-13 Set over one hot summer a startlingly assured debut about the kinds of love that break us and make us whole Seventeen year old Jean a troubled Jewish boy caught in the countercultural swirl of 1970s London arrives at Compton Manor a rural alternative boarding school for boys with problems Dyslexic antisocial and prone to violent outbursts Jean has never made friends easily and school has never been a place of safety or enjoyment Compton Manor is his last chance but even here despite the unconventional teaching methods Jean is marked by difference The other boys are fee paying while Jean is on a grant they have good English families while Jean's mother Rosa is a German Jewish refugee and his father is an absent memory Having broken the rules several times Jean is on thin ice But there is only one summer to get through and then Jean will pass his exams and get out All of a sudden he is befriended by Tom confident charming buoyed by years of good breeding and privilege and it seems as if Jean's world might change When things turn romantic Jean is tipped into a heady overwhelming infatuation Now Jean skips class to venture into the woods or sneaks across moonlit fields to see Tom wondering whether the relationship might offer a way out of a life marked by alienation But what if the only true path to freedom is to disappear altogether Spellbinding and evocative Jean is a meditative narrative of loss and escape distilled into the heartrending story of an intense and dangerous adolescent love
