Julian Hoffman

Distance From The Heart Of Things:

The Distance from the Heart of Things Ashley Warlick, 1997-06-18 In South Carolina a woman returns home from college with a bookkeeping degree to help her grandfather run his vineyards The novel describes her life amid a gallery of characters from an uncle her age whom she loves to a friend who boasts she never wears underwear A first novel

The Small Heart of Things Julian Hoffman, 2013 In The Small Heart of Things Julian Hoffman intimately examines the myriad ways in which connections to the natural world can be deepened through an equality of perception whether it is a caterpillar carrying its house of leaves transhumant shepherds ranging high mountain pastures a quail taking cover on an empty steppe or a Turkmen family emigrating from Afghanistan to Istanbul The narrative spans the common and often contested ground that supports human and natural communities alike seeking the unsung stories that sustain us Guided by the belief of Rainer Maria Rilke that everything beckons us to perceive it Hoffman explores the area around the Prespa Lakes the first transboundary park in the Balkans shared by Greece Albania and the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia From there he travels widely to regions rarely written about exploring the idea that home is wherever we happen to be if we accord that place our close and patient attention The Small Heart of Things is a book about looking and listening It incorporates travel and natural history writing that interweaves human stories with those of wild creatures Distinguished by Hoffman's belief that through awareness curiosity and openness we have the potential to forge abiding relationships with a range of places it illuminates how these many connections can teach us to be at home in the world

A Room at the Heart of Things Elisabeth Harvor, 1998 This is a lively quirky collection of short stories poetry and memoir vignettes from published Nino Ricci Robyn Sarah Rhea Tregebov and unpublished writers Elisabeth Harvor has met over the years in workshops and as a writer in residence in universities and libraries across Canada This is what I've looked for during the years I've been a workshop leader and writer in residence So that when I made copies of poems or stories that I loved it was always because the work lived and breathed or because it was in an original and off the cuff way thoughtful or profound Which is how these stories and poems became along with some memoir pieces the work that came to me I didn't have to solicit or select or reject I was already a collector And so it gives me great pleasure to invite others to read this collection of writers who I feel will matter in the future because their work already has such force and lan Elisabeth Harvor

Children, 2008 The Archaeology of Semiotics and the social order of things is edited by George Nash and George Children and brings together 15 thought provoking chapters from contributors around the world A sequel to an earlier volume published in 1997 it tackles the problem of understanding how complex communities interact with landscape and shows how the rules concerning landscape constitute a recognised and readable grammar The mechanisms underlying landscape grammar are both physical and mental being based in part on the mindset of the individual the same landscape can thus evoke different meanings for different people and at different times People's perception has greatly influenced the construction of landscapes over millennia but until recently the potential of this area has been largely untapped Apart from chapters focusing solely upon human interaction with landscape there are several which skilfully integrate artefacts and place with landscape e.g. Gheorghiu and Sognnes Other chapters look at the way people have marked the landscape through such mechanisms as rock art e.g. Clegg Devereux Est vez Fossati Kelleher and Skier Rock art establishes personal and communal identity in relation to landscape and it is clear that other forms of visual expression were in place which distinctively created special places within the landscape Landscape constructs can bind cultures together bringing the old ways of reading the landscape into contemporary life e.g. Smiseth Defining early and late prehistoric landscapes and segregating these into say mundane domestic and ritualised spaces rely on both clear and subtle archaeologies and in this volume distinct monument clustering and ritualised linearity are considered e.g. Mason and Nash A volume such as this cannot escape the influence of New World approaches such as anthropology and in many respects chapters by Bender Muller and Merritt give context to other chapters within the book Finally one must consider text as a means of constructing landscape and this is considered by Heyd who eloquently deconstructs the travel diary of a 17th century Japanese poet This will be an important volume for archaeologists landscape scholars and students The many approaches used are tried and tested forming an invaluable resource and not just another edited book
