Diverse World Views In An English Village:

Diverse World-views in an English Village Nigel Rapport,1993 A fascinating highly readable anthropological account of the way the inhabitants of a small English village come to conceive of the world how they imagine there is such a thing as society and such a thing as an individual Contrary to the expectations engendered by theory social life appears as chaotic multiple and contradictory a muddling through facilitated by the ambiguous relationship between the formal appearance of behaviors and the actuality of their personal interpretation Distributed by Columbia U Press Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Stories from the Street David Nixon,2016-04-01 Stories from the Street is a theological exploration of interviews with men and women who had experienced homelessness at some stage in their lives Framed within a theology of story and a theology of liberation Nixon suggests that story is not only a vehicle for creating human transformation but it is one of God s chosen means of effecting change Short biographies of twelve characters are examined under themes including crises in health and relationships self harm and suicide anger and pain God and the Bible Expanding the existing literature of contextual theology this book provides an alternative focus to a church shaped mission by advocating with and for a very marginal group suggesting that their experiences have much to teach the church Churches are perceived as being active in terms of pastoral work but reluctant to ask more profound questions about why homelessness exists at all A theology of homelessness suggests not just a God of the homeless but a homeless God who shares stories and provides hope Engaging with contemporary political and cultural debates about poverty housing and public spending Nixon presents a unique theological exploration of homeless people suffering hope and the human condition

Stigma Doctor Imogen Tyler,2020-04-15 Stigma is a corrosive social force by which individuals and communities throughout history have been systematically dehumanised scapegoated and oppressed From the literal stigmatizing tattooing of criminals in ancient Greece to modern day discrimination against Muslims refugees and the undeserving poor stigma has long been a means of securing the interests of powerful elites In this radical reconceptualisation Tyler precisely and passionately outlines the political function of stigma as an instrument of state coercion Through an original social and economic reframing of the history of stigma Tyler reveals stigma as a political practice illuminating previously forgotten histories of resistance against stigmatization boldly arguing that these histories provide invaluable insights for understanding the rise of authoritarian forms of government today

Anyone Nigel Rapport,2012-07-01 The significance that people grant to their affiliations as members of nations religions classes races ethnicities and genders is evidence of the vital need for a cosmopolitan project that originates in the figure of Anyone the universal and yet individual human being Cosmopolitanism offers an alternative to multiculturalism a different vision of identity belonging solidarity and justice that avoids the seemingly intractable character of identity politics it identifies samenesses of the human condition that underlie the surface differences of history culture and society nation ethnicity religion class race and gender This book argues for the importance of cosmopolitanism as a theory of human being as a methodology for social science and as a moral and political program A World of Fine Difference Adrian J. Peace, 2001 This study considers the extent to which economic modernisation has transformed the rural community In doing so it discusses whether the distinctive character of rural identity has been eroded by powerful and distant political and cultural forces This is the first full length ethnography of an Irish community for a number of years Since the early 1980s the anthropological analysis of community life in Ireland has been limited to brief articles whilst major community studies have been published in other European countries The author has regularly worked in Ireland Brno Studies in English, 1997 The Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute, 2002 Articles on all aspects of anthropology Year Book - Royal Society of Edinburgh Royal Society of Edinburgh, 1998 Comprises the obituary notices and appendices to Proceedings previously published at the end of each session s volume of Proceedings Cf Foreword 1940 41 Reimagining Culture Sharon Macdonald, 1997-11 Since the 1960s policies to revive minority cultures and languages have flourished But what does it mean to have a cultural identity And are minorities as deeply attached to their languages and traditions as revival policies suppose This book is a sophisticated analysis of responses to the Gaelic renaissance in a Scottish Hebridean community Its description of everyday conceptions of belonging and interpretations of cultural policy takes us into the world of Gaelic playgroups crofting local history religion and community development Historically and theoretically informed this book challenges many of the ways in which we conventionally think about ethnic and national identity This accessible and engaging account of life in this remote region of Europe provides an original and timely contribution to questions of considerable currency in a broad range of social science disciplines Journal of the Anthropological Society of Oxford, 1992 Roots & Rituals Ton Dekker, John Helsloot, Carla Wijers, 2000 The Rwanda Genocide and the Call to Deepen Christianity in Africa Mario I. Aguilar, 1998 Mediterranean Ethnological Summer School, 1999 Culture and Policy in Northern Ireland Hastings Donnan, Graham McFarlane, 1997 Environmental Issues in Education Gill Harris, Cynthia Blackwell, 1996 This book provides an overview of recent research on the understanding of environmental matters and a survey of resources available to support the delivery of environmental education With case studies of good practice the practitioner focus of this book looks at the contribution which both formal education in schools further and higher education and informal education via the media can make to the development of environmental awareness Making Sense of Wales Graham Day, 2002 Making Sense of Wales gives an account of the main changes that have taken place in Welsh society over the last fifty years as well as analysing the major efforts to interpret those changes By placing work done in Wales in the context of broader developments within sociological approaches over the period Graham Day demonstrates that there is a body of work on Wales worth considering in its own right as a specific contribution to sociology He also shows the relevance of sociological accounts of Wales for understanding contemporary empirical and theoretical concerns in social analysis Beginning with post war analysis which considered Wales in terms of regional planning and policy Day shows how more theoretically informed perspectives have come to the fore in recent years He also examines more contemporary developments such as gender and class transformations the emphasis on the centrality of the Welsh language for conceptions of Wales and Welshness as well as the impact of new forms of governance and questions of social exclusion
