Diversification And Accumulation In Rural Tanzania Anthropological:

Diversification and Accumulation in Rural Tanzania Pekka Seppälä, 1998 Recent studies on rural Africa increasingly reveal a pattern of development which is more complex than that proposed in earlier unilinear theories The researchers have recently located intricate systems of patronage local networks of cooperation indigenous social safety nets but also alarming rates of differentiation This study extends the analysis of local complexity to the labour sphere showing how rural producers tend to diversify into multiple sources of income resulting in innovative straddling between them The diversification which is a necessity for the poorest households provides the means for risk aversion and accumulation for the wealthier ones

Diversification and Accumulation in Rural Tanzania is a thought provoking and theoretically challenging work showing how cultural issues penetrate economic practices and modify the outcome of any economic interventions

Tanzania in Transition Kjell J. Havnevik, Aida C. Isinika, 2010 This book is the first comprehensive contribution to understanding the character of important societal transitions in Tanzania during Benjamin Mkapa's presidency 1995-2005 The analyses of the trajectory of these transitions are conducted against the background of the development model of Tanzania's first president Julius Nyerere 1961-1985 a model with lasting influence on the country This approach enables an understanding of continuities and discontinuities in Tanzania over time in areas such as development strategy an ideology agrarian land gender and forestry issues economic liberalization development assistance corruption and political change The period of Mkapa's presidency is particularly important because it represents the first phase of Tanzania's multi party political system Mkapa's government initially faced a gloomy economic situation Although Mkapa's crusade against corruption lost direction his presidency was characterised by relatively high growth rates and a stable macro economy Rural and agrarian transitions were dominated by diversification rather than productivity growth and transformation Rural attitudes in favour of land markets emerged only slowly but formal land disputes showed more respect for women's rights Some space emerged for widening local participation in forest management but rural dynamics was mainly found in trading settlements feeding on economic liberalization and artisanal mining The transitions documented and analysed of Mkapa's presidency however indicate only limited transformational change Rural poverty is therefore likely to remain deep and the sustainability of economic development to be at risk in the future Mkapa was however able to protect the legacy of peace and political stability of Nyerere but there were nevertheless important challenges to the first multiparty elections and governance and particularly in Zanzibar The post script covering 2005-2010 indicates that the incumbent president Jakaya Kikwete has yet to prove that he can change this legacy of Mkapa The contributions to the eleven chapters of this book are evenly shared between Tanzanian Nordic and other European researchers with a long term commitment to Tanzanian development research The book is dedicated to the youth of Tanzania

Contentious Politics, Local Governance and the Self Tim Kelsall, 2004 The Governance Agenda is the framework that currently organizes the West's relations with Africa The present work is an attempt to see Governance through the lens of a contemporary local history The report analyzes three periods of contentious politics at local level in Tanzania and two multi party elections It provides a window on mismanagement in local government it examines the intervention by national and local elites in district conflicts and it points to the difficulties ordinary people face in holding their leaders to account The argument of the report is that current approaches to the study of Governance overlook an essential ingredient for its potential success namely the sociological conditions in which forms of collective action conducive to improved political accountability become possible at a grassroots level The analysis aims to show that economic diversification and multiple livelihoods have given rise to a reticular social structure in which individuals find it difficult to combine to hold their leaders to account People have fragmented identities formed in networks of social relations which impedes the emergence of strong collective identities appropriate to effective social movements

Geographical Perspectives on Rural Diversification Ryanto Rijanta,2012 Framing African Development

,2015-09-29 This book discusses and challenges concepts that are widely used in research and policy related to development issues in Africa The main rationale for such an undertaking is that the concepts that are used to understand and define the world in general and Africa in particular are not merely describing social economic and political processes and events they are also largely framing these very same processes Thus the concepts by which we structure the world will implicitly or explicitly give premises for policies and practices limiting or favouring certain types of actions and frameworks of interpretation and understanding in various contexts It is therefore important to challenge commonly held conceptions about framing African development Contributors include Deborah Fahy Bryceson Rosalind Eyben Amanda Hammar Kjell Havnevik Mats H rsmar Terje Oestigaard and Rune Skarstein Food Insecurity and Coping Strategies in Semiarid Areas Emma

T. Liwenga,2003 African Socialism in Postcolonial Tanzania Priya Lal,2015-12 Drawing on a wide range of oral and written sources this book tells the story of Tanzania s socialist experiment the ujamaa villagization initiative of 1967 75 Inaugurated shortly after independence ujamaa familyhood in Swahili both invoked established socialist themes and departed from the existing global repertoire of development policy seeking to reorganize the Tanzanian countryside into communal villages to achieve national development Priya Lal investigates how Tanzanian leaders and rural people creatively envisioned ujamaa and documents how villagization unfolded on the ground without affixing the project to a trajectory of inevitable failure By forging an empirically rich and conceptually nuanced account of ujamaa African Socialism in Postcolonial Tanzania restores a sense of possibility and process to the early years of African independence refines prevailing theories of nation building and development and expands our understanding of the 1960s and 70s world Sources and Methods in African History Toyin Falola,Christian Jennings,2004 An overview of the ongoing methods used to understand African history Spurred in part by the ongoing re evaluation of sources and methods in research African historiography in the past two decades has been characterized by the continued branching and increasing sophistication of methodologies and areas of specialization The rate of incorporation of new sources and methods into African historical research shows no signs of slowing This book is both a snapshot of current academic practice and an attempt to sort through some of the problems scholars face within this unfolding web of sources and methods The book is divided into five sections each of which begins with a short introduction by a distinguished Africanist scholar The first section deals with archaeological contributions to historical research The second section examines the methodologies involved in deciphering historically accurate African ethnic identities from the records of the trans Atlantic slave trade The third section mines old documentary sources for new historical perspectives The fourth section deals with the method most often associated with African historians that of drawing historical data from oral tradition The fifth section is devoted to essays that present innovative sources and methods for African historical research Together the essays in this cutting edge volume represent the current state of the art in African historical research Toyin Falola is the Jacob and Frances Sanger Mossiker Chair in the Humanities and University Distinguished Teaching Professor at the University of Texas at Austin Christian Jennings is a Doctoral Candidate in History at the University of Texas at Austin Tanzanian Affairs ,1999 Rural Development Reconsidered Juichi Itani,Minako Araki,2007 *G.K.
