Belonging Together:

Belonging Together Patrick John Sullivan, 2011 Belonging Together describes current Indigenous affairs policy in Australia concentrating on the period since the end of ATSIC in 2004 It provides a unique overview of the trajectory of current policy with Sullivan advancing a new consolidated approach to Indigenous policy which moves beyond the debate over self determination and assimilation Instead he suggests that the interests of Indigenous peoples settlers and immigrants are fundamentally shared and proposes adaptation on both sides but particularly for the descendants of settlers and immigrants to allow them to embrace the framing of their identity by Indigenous presence Sullivan is also critical of the remote control of Indigenous lives from metropolitan centres with long lines of bureaucratic oversight that are inherently maladaptive and inefficient and he proposes regional measures for policy implementation and accountability Belonging Together's empirical studies of current policy implementation advance the body of knowledge in the underdeveloped field of the anthropology of policy and public administration AIATSIS website

Being and God Lorenz B. The Experience of Being as Goal of Human Existence Versus A. George, 2000 Being Together in Place Soren C. Larsen, Jay T. Johnson, 2017-11-01 Being Together in Place explores the landscapes that convene Native and non Native people into sustained and difficult negotiations over their radically different interests and concerns Grounded in three sites the Cheslatta Carrier traditional territory in British Columbia the Wakarusa Wetlands in northeastern Kansas and the Waitangi Treaty Grounds in Aotearoa New Zealand this book highlights the challenging tentative and provisional work of coexistence around such contested spaces as wetlands treaty grounds fishing spots recreation areas cemeteries heritage trails and traditional village sites At these sites activists learn how to articulate and defend their intrinsic and life supportive ways of being particularly to those who are intent on damaging or destroying these places Using ethnographic research and a geographic perspective Soren C Larsen and Jay T Johnson show how the communities in these regions challenge the power relations that structure the ongoing post colonial encounter in liberal democratic settler states Emerging from their conversations with activists was a distinctive sense that the places for which they cared had agency a call that pulled them into dialogue relationships and action with human and nonhuman others This being together in place they find speaks in a powerful way to the vitalities of coexistence where humans and nonhumans are working to decolonize their relationships where reciprocal guardianship is being stitched back together in new and unanticipated ways and where a new kind of place thinking is emerging on the borders of colonial power
