Distressing Dialogues, 1924     Distressing dialogues, 1923     Distressing Dialogues, 1924     Distressing Dialogues. With a Preface by Edna St. Vincent Millay Edna St. Vincent Millay, 1924     Distressing Dialogues Nancy BOYD (pseud.), 1924     Millay at 100 Diane P. Freedman, 1995

In this newest addition to Sandra M Gilbert's Ad Feminam Women and Literature series Diane P Freedman brings together twelve essays by critics of poetry and women's writing for a critical reappraisal of the prolific work of Edna St Vincent Millay. Though finding its occasion in the life of Millay the centennial of the writer's birth this volume refocuses attention on Millay's art by asking questions central to our present concerns. What in the varied body of Millay's work speaks to us most forcefully today? Which critical perspectives most illuminate her texts? How might those approaches be challenged, extended, or reoriented? In seeking the answers to such questions the volume's contributors illuminate the means by which Millay's early success has been slighted and misunderstood and examine issues of personality, personae, critical stature, and formal experimentation in Millay's various genres: lyric poetry, the sonnet, verse drama, fiction, and the personal letter.

In 1920, following the publication of A Few Figs from Thistles, Millay was the It girl of American poetry. But by the late 1930s her popularity waned as her critical reputation declined under the reign of high modernism and its critics. In fact, Millay like others of her generation had rejected modernist elitism in favor of public engagement, using her powerful public voice to plead for an end to the Sacco-Vanzetti trials, as well as for U.S. entry into World War II. Condemned for both her politicizing and her political poetry, she was the first to admit that she and her poetry suffered in the service of public causes.

Grouped into four parts, these essays focus on Millay's relation to modernism, her revisionary perspectives on love, her treatment of time and of the female body, and her use of masquerade and impersonation in life and in art. Throughout the essayists pose such questions as: Where is Millay's place in the literary histories of modern writing and in our hearts? How are we to value, interpret, and characterize the various forms and genres in which she wrote? What is the cultural work Millay achieves and reflects? How does she help us redefine modernism? What do Millay's great gifts enable us to see about genre, the social construction of gender, the definition of modernism, and the role of the poet? Millay's considerable productivity, the range and virtues of her forms, and her experimentation clearly argue for a wide-ranging reappraisal of her work.

Playing Smart Catherine Keyser, 2010-08-12

Smart women, sophisticated ladies, savvy writers: Edna St. Vincent Millay, Dorothy Parker, Anita Loos, Lois Long, Jessie Fauset, Dawn Powell, Mary McCarthy, and others imagined New York as a place where they could claim professional status, define urban independence, and shrug off confining feminine roles. It might be said that during the 1920s and 1930s these literary artists painted the town red on the pages of magazines like Vanity Fair and the New Yorker. Playing Smart, Catherine Keyser's homage to their literary genius, is a captivating celebration of their causes and careers. Through humor, writing this smart set expressed both sides of the story: promoting their urbanity and wit while using irony and caricature to challenge feminine stereotypes. Their fiction raised questions about what it meant to be a woman in the public eye how gender roles would change because men and women were working together and how the growth of the magazine industry would affect women s relationships to their bodies and minds Keyser provides a refreshing and informative chronicle saluting the value of being smart as incisive and innovative humor showed off the wit and talent of women writers and satirized the fantasy world created by magazines The Dramatic Index for ... Frederick Winthrop Faxon, Mary Estella Bates, Anne C.
