Which Degree Guide ,2001 Design, Performance and Scalability of the Distributed Enterprise Systems Janusz S. Kowalik,2001 Enterprise systems supporting business processes in large companies and organizations are critical for their business survival and expensive to build and run This book describes successful approaches to designing and tuning for performance large enterprise systems In contrast to earlier mainframes the modern distributed systems contain large numbers of components and simple capacity planning methods applicable to mainframes cannot be used for design or tuning of complex distributed systems. Methods that have proven to be successful are based on building predictive models that take into account key characteristics of hardware, software, data, and communications. Human Aspects in Computing: Design and use of interactive systems and work with terminals Hans-Jörg Bullinger, 1991 International Encyclopedia of Business and Management Malcolm Warner, 2002 Signal, 1993 Special issue on distributed information systems in business and management Wolfgang König, 1994 Organizational Decision Support Systems Ronald M. Lee, Andrew M. McCosh, Piero Migliarese, 1988. Decision Support Systems (DSS) are typically viewed as computerized aids for managerial decision making at the individual level. By contrast, this volume focuses on DSS for group and organizational decision making. The contributions are from academics and practitioners who are developing new concepts, techniques, and software to support decision-related activities involving multiple participants. The book is in five sections. The first looks at the organizational setting of group decision support systems and experiences of various enterprises in their use. The second section is concerned with supporting negotiation processes in decision situations where the participants have conflicting goals. The third section deals with analysis and design issues in developing group organizational DSS. Behavioral issues relating to the impact of the technology are examined in section four, while the fifth section discusses practical experiences with group decision rooms.
