
Cover Letter with No Experience

Dear [Hiring Manager's Name],

I am writing to express my interest in the open position at your company, which I learned about through your posting on JobBoard. Although I recently graduated and do not have extensive work experience, I am confident that my strong academic background and leadership skills cultivated through extracurricular activities make me an excellent fit for this position.

During my time at University, I was an active member of our debate team, which allowed me to develop strong communication, teamwork, and problem-solving skills. Furthermore, my studies in [relevant field] have given me a solid foundation in [job-specific skills].

I am eager to bring my passion, dedication, and willingness to learn to your team. Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the possibility of contributing to your organization.

Sincerely,
[Your Full Name]

Using Blogs to Enhance Literacy Diane Penrod, 2007. Adolescents spend nearly six hours a day online with most of those hours focused on blogging. Whether they are writing on MySpace, Xanga, Bebo, LiveJournal, or some other site, these youngsters invest time and energy creating new or different social identities. Beyond the mainstream media hype about the dangers of adolescents and blogs, we find that these young people are developing 21st-century literacies, especially in information and visual literacy. Using Blogs to Enhance Literacy examines this phenomenon and how it affects adolescents from offering easy avenues for bullying to bridging the digital divide. In this book, Diane Penrod addresses the social, developmental, and pedagogical issues surrounding the use of blogs and the implications that blogging has for current and future students.
