Bowker Company,1978 Who's Writing This? Daniel Halpern,1995 This book includes over 50 essays and the astounding variety and excellence of the group make for a remarkably complete statement on the difficulty self loathing humor courage and inspiration involved with the creative process Such writers as John Fowles John Updike Margaret Atwood James A Michener Susan Sontag Darryl Pinckney Alice Hoffman Roy Blount Jr Joyce Carol Oates and Arthur Miller cheerfully and skillfully reveal themselves along with many others using Borges playful construct with surprisingly distinctive results In addition the authors have accompanied their pieces with self portraits which range from cartoonist Ed Koren s zany figures to Helen Vendler s carefully traced hand and include a variety of possibilities in between It is rare that readers are given such privileged information however tongue in cheek about the identities of their favorite authors still rarer to meet their personas in the same place

Smith, 1986 AB Bookman's Weekly, 1996 The National Union Catalogs, 1963-, 1964 Twentieth-Century Crime Fiction Lee Horsley, 2005-08-25 Twentieth Century Crime Fiction aims to enhance understanding of one of the most popular forms of genre fiction by examining a wide variety of the detective and crime fiction produced in Britain and America during the twentieth century It will be of interest to anyone who enjoys reading crime fiction but is specifically designed with the needs of students in mind It introduces different theoretical approaches to crime fiction e g formalist historicist psychoanalytic postcolonial feminist and will be a useful supplement to a range of crime fiction courses whether they focus on historical contexts ideological shifts the emergence of sub genres or the application of critical theories Forty seven widely available stories and novels are chosen for detailed discussion In seeking to illuminate the relationship between different phases of generic development Lee Horsley employs an overlapping historical framework with sections doubling back chronologically in order to explore the extent to which successive transformations have their roots within the earlier phases of crime writing as well as responding in complex ways to the preoccupations and anxieties of their own eras The first part of the study considers the nature and evolution of the main sub genres of crime fiction the classic and hard boiled strands of detective fiction the non investigative crime novel centred on transgressors or victims and the mixed form of the police procedural The second half of the study examines the ways in which writers have used crime fiction as a vehicle for socio political critique These chapters consider the evolution of committed oppositional strategies tracing the development of politicized detective and crime fiction from Depression era protests against economic injustice to more recent decades which have seen writers launching protests against ecological crimes rampant consumerism Reaganomics racism and sexism
