Consciousness Trần Duc Thao, 2012-12-06 Tran Duc Thao a wise and learned scientist and an eminent Marxist philosopher begins this treatise on the origins of language and consciousness with a question One of the principal difficulties of the problem of the origin of consciousness is the exact determination of its beginnings Precisely where must one draw the line between the sensori motor psychism of animals and the conscious psychism that we see developing in man And then he cites Karl Marx's famous passage about the bee and the architect from Capital what distinguishes the worst architect from the best of bees is this that the architect raises his structure in the imagination before he erects it in reality At the end of every labor process we get a result that already existed in the imagination of the laborer at its commencement Capital Vol I p 178 tr Moore and Aveling Thao follows this immediately with a second question But is this the most elementary form of consciousness Thus the conundrum concerning the origins of consciousness is posed as a circle if human consciousness presupposes representation of the external reality of mental awareness of actions of what it may and if this consciousness emerges first with the activity of production using tools and if the production of tools itself presupposes representation that is with an image of what is to be produced in the mind of the producer then the conditions for the origins of human
