Cannibal in the Mirror Paul Fleischman, John Whalen, 2000-01-01 Selections from anthropological writings are paired with photographs of twentieth century people engaged in similar activities Cannibal Old Me Mary K. Bercaw Edwards, 2009 At the age of twenty one Herman Melville signed on the whaleship Acushnet as a common seaman and sailed from Massachusetts to the South Pacific Upon reaching Nuku Hiva in the Marquesas Islands he deserted and spent a month ashore on this reputed cannibal island He departed as crew of another whaleship but was put ashore in the heavily missionized Tahitian islands after participating in a bloodless mutiny Eventually making his way to Hawaii he joined the crew of the American frigate United States and finally reached Boston in October 1844 after four years at sea By the time he sat down to write his first book Melville had been recounting tales of these experiences orally for four years The spoken elements of the overlapping discourses involving sailors cannibals and missionaries are essential to his first six books Mary K Bercaw Edwards investigates the interplay between spoken sources and written narratives She closely examines how Melville altered original stories and she questions his truthfulness about his experiences Bercaw Edwards also explores the synergistic blend of the oral and written worlds of seafaring and the South Pacific and provides an analysis of Melville's development as a writer It is a study of the aesthetic ethical linguistic and cultural implications of Melville's borrowing Cannibal Old Me is an excellent contribution to Melville scholarship challenging long held assumptions regarding his early works Scholars as well as students will welcome it as an indispensable addition to the study of nineteenth century literature and maritime history Duda Raúl Romero Havaux, 2014-08-25 Mexico 1970 The world celebrates its first three time World Cup champion Gabriel however has little to celebrate Brazil 2013 Duda a successful sports marketing executive is called to a meeting that will change his life Sofia his love of many years and Edson his friend and star captain of the Brazilian national team take the news in very distinct ways when Duda calls and proposes something that will change the soccer world forever FIFA and sponsors are not enthusiastic but little by little Duda finds allies and his idea takes shape Meanwhile Natalija an attractive and successful independent journalist has moved to Rio to follow a lead on the story of another prize that will be disputed at the World Cup Everything is on track until Duda travels to Mexico City Brazil June 12 2014 After the inauguration ceremony Brazil's national team takes the pitch and on TV all one can see are thousands of shimmers of light Natalija smiled because she knew that he knew that she knew about soccer She smiled because he looked at her like in that way on this beautiful May afternoon on this beautiful terrace next to the ocean and she was sharing this moment with a beautiful man who not only knew about soccer and knew that she knew about soccer but who was so interested in her that he said nothing about it She smiled because it had been so long since she had been in the presence of a man she was interested in she had felt it the moment they met even though he was exactly the opposite of her type He drives a Porsche for Christ's sake she had thought playfully Cannibalism in Literature and Film J.
