Global Exchanges and Gender Perspectives in Africa Jean-Bernard Ouédraogo, Roseline M. Achieng', 2011 The global perspectives adopted in this volume by the authors from different academic disciplines and social experiences ought not to be locked in sterile linearity which within process of globalisation would fail to perceive the irreversible opening up of the worlds of the south There is the need within the framework of the analyses presented here to quite cogently define the sense of the notion of the market The market here does not refer to saving or the localised exchange of goods a perspective which is imposed by normative perceptions In fact a strictly materialistic reading of exchange would be included since every social practice and interaction implies a communitarian transaction meanwhile the exchange system under study here broadens to root out the obligation of the maximisation of mercantile profit from the cycle of exchange Trade here would have a meaning closer to those of old one of human interaction in a way that one could also refer to bon commerce between humans In one way trade places itself at the heart of social exchanges included the power of money and is carried along by a multitude of social interactions The reader is called upon to take into account the major mercantile formations of the social trade system the market society without forgetting the diversity of exchange routes as well as the varying modalities of social construction at the margins and within market logics those of implicit value in trade between humans which the texts herein also seek to review The age old project of restructuring the domestic economy the market society as it has developed in the West whence it has set out to conquer the whole wide world places at the very centre of the current capitalist expansion the challenge of imperatively reshaping gender identity inter alia in market relations

Outer Space Development, International Relations and Space Law Edythe Weeks, 2013-02-21 It is the eve of outer space development but few people are aware of this In the absence of awareness people cannot prepare for the opportunities that will arise and so the vast wealth likely to flow to Earth from outer space will cause ever greater inequality and instability in our already unequal and unstable world This book is a call to educators to factor equality and diversity into the process of outer space development by creating a widespread movement to teach outer space development studies to all students especially those who study social and behavioral sciences In calling for this the author is also putting out a call to visionary thinkers to increase public awareness that outer space is already in the process of being developed Her objective is to provide a pedagogical approach aimed at mending the knowledge gap If we fail in this objective we are more likely than ever before to witness ever widening gaps of social and financial inequality The first question that will arise as we embark on this process of course will be Why outer space development People often ask where the money will come from to develop outer space Platinum group metals such as iridium and osmium and various other valuable untapped natural resources have been discovered in abundant quantities and are likely to be mined by companies The discovery of natural resources has sparked development projects in the past These historical patterns of human behavior are occurring again today as companies speed up the process of private spaceship development A myriad of space laws and policies are already in place to support space commercialization Recently the 2010 NASA Authorization Act and various other laws and policies initiated by the US government have placed on the agenda plans to build advanced space transportation systems to privatize spacecraft development to create commercial space habitats space stations and space settlements to initiate commercial space mining to investigate spacecraft trajectory optimization for landing on near Earth asteroids to engage in commercial spaceport construction and interstellar interplanetary international telecommunications and to launch space exploration missions to near Earth asteroids the Moon Mars and Mars s moons US initiatives have in the past been mirrored by the international community and we can expect to see similar patterns arising on a global scale indeed as this book will demonstrate they already are The global community is experiencing economic recession natural disasters lack of opportunity employment anxiety failing K 12 programs widening inequality gaps uprisings revolutions revolts unmet educational goals and a general failure to uplift inspire and provide meaningful opportunities for significant portions of our population People need something that will allow them to focus anew their talents energies abilities and gifts and use this bleak climate as an opportunity for positive change Outer space development is emerging as an answer to this state of crisis The question is To whom will the benefits accrue Many strategic decisions have already been taken regarding space development of which the global general public is unaware Once legal rights to space resources are granted only those with the capital to take advantage of new laws and policies will be in a position to profit from the new space industries Only those who are in a position to know about outer space development will be in position to take advantage of the opportunities It is important to remember that the global general public has for several decades been paying the start up costs for space exploration research science and technology It s not too late to factor in equality before an infrastructure of inequality is forever with us as we venture to establish the final frontier Globalization Robert Goehlert,2003 Special Issue Capturing Globalization James H. Public Policy, Culture, and the Impact of Globalisation in Malaysia Mohd. Hazim Shah,Kai Lit Phua,2004 A Theory of Global Capitalism William I. Robinson,2004-03-12 In this book sociologist William Robinson offers a theory of globalization that follows the rise of a new capitalist class and a new type of state formation He explains how global capital mobility has allowed capital to reorganize production worldwide in accordance with a whole range of considerations that allow for maximizing profit making opportunities This worldwide decentralization and fragmentation of the production process has taken place alongside the centralization of command and control of the global economy in transnational capital In turn this economic reorganization finds a political counterpart in the rise of the transnational state In the future Robinson argues hegemony will be exercised not by a particular nation state but by the new global ruling class who regardless of their nationality tend to share similar lifestyles and interact through expanding networks of this transnational state In this way the process of globalization is unifying the world into a single mode of production that is increasingly integrating different countries and regions into a new global economy and society Robinson concludes that because the new global capitalism is
