Reckoning with Change in Yucatán Jason Ramsey, 2023-11-30 Reckoning with Change in Yucatán engages with how best to look upon and respond to change arguing that this debate is an important arena for negotiating local belonging and a force of transformation in its own right For residents of Chunchucmil a historic rural community in Yucatán Mexico history is anything but straightforward Living in what is both a defunct 19th century hacienda estate and a vibrant Catholic pilgrimage site Chunchucmil os reckon past present and future in radically different ways For example while some use the aging estate buildings to weave a history of economic decline and push for revitalization by hotel developers others highlight the growing fame of the Virgin of the Rosary in the attached church and vow to defend the site from developer interference By exploring how past and future are channeled through changing built environments landscapes sacred relics and legal documents this ethnographic study details how the politics of change provide Chunchucmil os with a common language for debating commitments to place and each another in the present Against Western notions of History as a relatively coherent account of change the book suggests we reframe it as an ongoing performance that is always fractured democratic and morally tinged The Maya Identity of Yucatan, 1500-1935 Quetzil E. Castañeda, 2004

The Political Economy of Chikinchel, Yucatán, Mexico Susan Kepecs, 1999 The Folk Culture of Yucatan Robert Redfield, 1941 Results of research carried on under the auspices and at the expense of Carnegie Institution of Washington Yucatán's Maya Peasantry and the Origins of the Caste War Terry Rugeley, 1996 Review Social history that challenges earlier views of the Caste War Examines the development of the social political and economic structure of the Yucatán during the first half of the 19th century and profiles four towns involved in the Caste War Emphasizes the eroding status of Maya elites as a key to the revolt Handbook of Latin American Studies v 58 <http://www.loc.gov/hlas>

Household and Community in the Mesoamerican Past Richard R. Wilk, Wendy Ashmore, 1988

Rediscovering The Past at Mexico's Periphery Gilbert M. Joseph, 1986-05-30 Surveys major trends in Yucatán's currents in Mexican historiography and suggest new departures for regional and local level research Increasingly the modern era of Mexican history c 1750 to the present is attracting the attention of Mexican and international scholars Significant studies have appeared for most of the major regions and Yucatán in particular has generated an unusual appeal and an abundant scholarship This book surveys major trends in Yucatán's currents in Mexican historiography and suggest new departures for regional and local level research Rather than compiling lists of sources around given subject headings in the manner of many historiographies the author seeks common ground for analysis in the new literature's preoccupation with changing relations of land labor and capital and their impact on regional society and culture Joseph proposes a new periodization of Yucatán's modern history which he develops in a series of synthetic essays rooted in regional political economy The Indian in Latin American History John E. Kicza, 1993-06-01 Far from being a footnote in Latin American history Indians form the structure upon which Latin American history is based More than ten million Indians were organized into many complex cultures and societies thousands of years before Europeans reached their hemisphere In The Indian in Latin American History Professor John E Kicza compiles articles by leading historians and anthropologists to examine the complex interplay of Indian and Western cultures The ten articles in this work explore Indian Western relations from initial contact to contemporary struggles for cultural identity Maya Christian Murals of Early Modern Yucatán Amara Solari, Linda K. Williams, 2024-11-12 The first study of Christian murals created by indigenous artists in sixteenth and seventeenth century Yucatán In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries Maya artists painted murals in churches and conventos of Yucatán using traditional techniques to depict iconography brought from Europe by Franciscan friars The fragmentary visual remains and their placement within religious structures embed Maya conceptions of sacredness beyond the didactic imagery Mobilizing both cutting edge technology and tried and true analytical methods art historians Amara Solari and Linda K Williams reexamine the Maya Christian murals centering the agency of the people who created them The first volume to comprehensively document the paintings Maya Christian Murals of Early Modern Yucatán collects new research on the material composition of the works made possible by cutting edge imaging methods Solari and Williams investigate pigments and other material resources as well as the artists and historical contexts of the murals The authors uncover numerous local innovations in form and content including images celebrating New World saints celestial timekeeping and ritual processions Solari and Williams argue that these murals were not simply vehicles of coercion but of cultural grafting that allowed Maya artists to shape a distinctive and polyvocal legacy in their communities

Mesoamérica, directorio y bibliografía, 1950-1980 Alfredo Méndez-Domínguez, 1982 BELCAST Journal of Belizean Affairs, 1985 A Postclassic Perspective Diane Z. Chase, Arlen Frank Chase, 1988 Heritage Or Heresy Cameron Jean Walker, 2009-01-08 How can we effectively interpret and present one culture to another without stereotypes or over simplifications What is the best way to present an authoritative version of a national heritage without also endangering ancient sites or being insensitive to the local customs beliefs and religious practices of the indigenous peoples This volume addresses the ongoing thrust in archaeology to take the next step after preserving the past interpreting that past for the future That future audience includes both local citizens and tourists who may have little background in archaeology anthropology or the history of the culture featured Walker presents the key components of the anthropological study of tourism as a global phenomenon with particular emphasis on the more prominent arguments for how and why tourism is a universal and meaningful human activity The highly controversial topic of authenticity is examined with special attention given to how authentic has been defined and how it relates to the ways in which archaeological sites artifacts and cultural traditions are presented or not presented to the visiting public The ephemeral promise of authenticity drives the heritage tourism industry which is a key consideration for the long term economy of the Maya Riviera and elsewhere Through analysis of seven archaeological sites on the Yucatan peninsula that are open to heritage touring Walker reveals the planned growth of the Maya Riviera since the early 1970s and examines the impact of international tourism on both ancient structures and the contemporary Maya people and culture Contributions to American Anthropology and History R.
