Linked to Modern Biomedical Research G. Van Steendam,1993 This Compendium was produced as part of a study contract led by the Commission of the European Communities Directorate General for Science Research and Development Ref No PSS 0310 It contains a comprehensive overview of problematic situations which are commonly discussed in the standard literature on biomedical ethics as analysed by the International Forum for Biophilosophy The purpose of the study contract was to establish an analytical inventory of possible ethical problems linked to modern biomedical research and of the involved leading scientists and research centres in the European Community The latter part of the study objective is reported in a separate complementary volume the Repertoire which presents information following a questionnaire from experts who have professional leading functions relevant to advanced biomedical research confronted with ethical questions Both volumes should be regarded as a first step towards a reference source potentially helpful to objectify the present concern and discussion about the fast progress of modern biomedical science and technology The two volumes are therefore conceived as living documents for practical use which do not pretend to be exhaustive but which invite all competent European researchers to complete them in due course and to share the information they have This will make future updates increasingly more effective The reader of this book will easily discover that most questions and Issues mentioned in this volume are in fact particular appearances or embodiments of deeper questions like What is really the good society we can aim at now What is the good personal well being we should promote in those circumstances What does it mean to us to make good use of and develop a good attitude towards nature its potential problems and its resources What are the good things for us to aspire to now How exactly can health care contribute to the realization of those goals and How exactly can developments in biology or medicine improve the quality of those goals or the effectiveness to reach them Human Genetics Gordon Edlin,1990 Social Psychology Ellen P. Lamont,2009 This volume presents the latest thinking in social psychology which is the science that studies individual beliefs attitudes and behaviours in settings where other people are present or merely implied or imagined which makes the definition pretty broad Notice the focus is quite different from sociology where groups of people are studied but closer to psychology where individuals are studied The focus of social psychology is the individual within the group As such it is an ideal venue for studying those forces that change humans their beliefs their attitudes and their behaviours El-Hi Textbooks & Serials in Print, 2005 ,2005 Veterinary Journal
