Outside Directors, Liability Risk and Corporate Governance Brian R. Cheffins,2019 Outside directors constitute a key component of most prescriptions for good governance of public companies Given that outside directors are important corporate governance players one is led to wonder what will motivate the individuals serving in this capacity to carry out their responsibilities in an effective manner An obvious possibility is that concerns about being held personally liable will push them to perform effectively This chapter correspondingly considers the scope of outside director liability in seven countries Australia Britain Canada France Germany Japan and the United States The chapter indicates that outside directors of public companies are at some risk when litigants are seeking to send a message to those serving in the boardroom of public companies Generally however such individuals only very rarely pay damages or legal expenses out of their own pocket The chapter offers a brief assessment of the costs and benefits of current arrangements and concludes that consistent with the current cross border pattern out of pocket liability should remain a rare outcome

Ensuring Corporate Misconduct Tom Baker,Sean J. Directors' Liability and Indemnification Edward Smerdon,2011 Directors liabilities have been a key concern in boardrooms since the various high profile corporate failures in Europe and the United States over the past two decades when regulation increased and shareholders and companies rights to bring civil claims were extended The current financial crisis will inevitably bring with it greater risks and challenges for directors. There is an increasingly aggressive environment for civil claims fuelled by insolvency shareholders' pressure and public outcry. The attention of the regulators is also ever more sharply focussed on directors' conduct. Directors are understandably looking closely at the protection available to them through both indemnification and directors and officers insurance. The exposures faced by directors and the extent to which indemnification and insurance may provide protection vary significantly around the world. This comprehensive second edition features contributions by leading experts on the important aspects of directors' liability, the protection available to directors and the risks of doing business in multiple jurisdictions. New to the second edition are chapters on China, the Czech Republic, Kazakhstan, Saudi Arabia, Slovakia, South Korea and the United Arab Emirates. In addition to civil claims and indemnification, each chapter now includes commentary on regulatory and criminal liability. Particular focus is placed on the impact of the credit crisis. There is also a new section dealing with regulatory issues surrounding global directors and officers programmes and their ability to provide cover in all intended jurisdictions. Unique in its approach, this forthcoming second edition is a powerful tool in assisting directors, officers, in-house counsel and the private practice lawyers advising them to make well informed judgements about the risks they are taking.

Research Handbook on Corporate Legal Responsibility Stephen Tully, 2005. The ever important topic of corporate legal responsibility is deconstructed into many multifaceted components in this fascinating Handbook which systematically examines each in turn and describes the contemporary legal position. The Research Handbook on Corporate Legal Responsibility considers general theory and basic concepts such as corporate legal personality, the doctrine of attribution, corporate governance and directors' duties and reviews the range of individuals to which corporations may be held responsible, particularly employees, suppliers, shareholders, stakeholders and women. The substantive grounds for corporate responsibility under civil and criminal law within the North American and Commonwealth jurisdictions are evaluated and mechanisms of accountability such as novel regulatory processes, interactive regulation, codes of conduct and social reporting, risk management and the significant role of non-governmental organisations are identified. The thought provoking chapters contained within this Handbook go on to present perspectives on topical international questions: corruption, labour standards, human rights, environmental protection and sustainable development, including an analysis of recent initiatives from several international organisations. Bringing together the work of around thirty leading academics, practitioners, campaigners and policymakers from North America, Europe and Australia, each chapter locates these issues within a theoretical context, giving an overview of its historical evolution, providing an accurate account of the current legal position and identifying policy issues likely to influence future developments.

The Non-Executive Director - General Duties and Special Liability Julia Neumann, 2011-02. Master's Thesis from the year 2010 in the subject Law Comparative Legal Systems Comparative Law grade A University of Auckland Law Faculty course Corporate Governance language English abstract. This paper considers duties and liability of independent non-executive directors as authorities of advice and control in companies It deals with the question of how non executive directors should be made liable for mismanagement of the board but primarily by and particular failures of their own through breach of duty Rather than engaging in the debate about non executive directors function and their efficiency for a business enterprise the essay takes the latter as a given Instead it neutrally provides an outline of non executive directors agreed functions preferred skills and favoured qualities The paper moreover details on the different duties deriving from common law principles equity and case law It also considers on statutes and codes as well as contractual provisions providing equivalent regulations on directors duties This is to draw a complete picture of non executive directors role in a company and to classify where liability can result from Furthermore non executive directors liability is analysed The focus hereby lies on the determination of directors negligence The issue is considered as to whether a court applies a different degree of negligence on non executive directors than on executive directors In this context the influence of contractual provisions is contemplated In addition liability of non executive directors is also compared to the liability of supervisory board members Subsequently alternative mechanisms of equalizing the risk of liability such as indemnifications insurances and adequate reimbursements are examined more closely Concluding on non executive directors liability the paper declares the loss of reputation and further soft sanctions as the actual sanction on non executive directors Corporate Governance Jennifer Arlen, National Practice Institute (U.S.), 1999
