Corporeal Image:

The Corporeal Image David MacDougall, 2005-10-10 In this book David MacDougall one of the leading ethnographic filmmakers and film scholars of his generation builds upon the ideas from his widely praised Transcultural Cinema and argues for a new conception of how visual images create human knowledge in a world in which the value of seeing has often been eclipsed by words In ten chapters MacDougall explores the relations between photographic images and the human body the body of the viewer and the body behind the camera as well as the body as seen in ethnography cinema and photography In a landmark piece he discusses the need for a new field of social aesthetics further elaborated in his reflections on filming at an elite boys school in northern India The theme of the school is taken up as well in his discussion of fiction and nonfiction films of childhood The book's final section presents a radical view of the history of visual anthropology as a maverick anthropological practice that was always at odds with the anthropology of words In place of the conventional wisdom he proposes a new set of principles for visual anthropology These are essays in the classical sense speculative judicious lucidly written and mercifully jargon free The Corporeal Image presents the latest ideas from one of our foremost thinkers on the role of vision and visual representation in contemporary social thought

The Image that Never Ends Roger Canals, 2025-11-01 We live in a time of profound transformation in the field of image and visual culture Roger Canals redefines visual anthropology from both a theoretical and practical perspective drawing on numerous examples from everyday life as well as insights from his own films and research This book explores the relationship between images and anthropology offering a deeper understanding of how visual culture shapes our world It addresses how anthropology can help us reflect on the role of images in daily life and reconsider classic anthropological themes ritual kinship and power through the lens of contemporary visuality

Spirituality is a Science Bahram Elahi, 1999 Faith and reason belief and experimentation spirituality and science in our modern era we have come to view these concepts as inherently dichotomous How can spirituality be considered a science when the very foundation of modern science was established in contrast or even in opposition to certain systems of thought inherited from religious traditions Through a series of innovative and thought provoking studies Dr Bahram Elahi redefines spirituality as an experimental science rooted in concrete and empirically verifiable realities

A Goddess in Motion Roger Canals, 2017-08-01 The current practice of the cult of Mar a Lionza is one of the most important and yet unexplored religious practices in Venezuela Based on long term fieldwork this book explores the role of images and visual culture within the cult By adopting a relational approach A Goddess in Motion shows how the innumerable images of this goddess represented as an Indian white or mestizo woman move constantly from objects to bodies from bodies to dreams and from the religion domain to the art world In short this book is a fascinating study that sheds light on the role of visual creativity in contemporary religious manifestations
