Delftse Porceleyn Dutch Delftware 1620-1850:

Delftse Porceleyn Jan Daniël van Dam, 2004 Delftware has been produced for more than two hundred years in thirty different factories specialized in this type of earthenware. During this time tens of thousands of men and women have worked in Delft to create a product with a truly European look. The five sections in this publication tell about the potteries, the successes and disappointments of the people who worked in them, and the beautiful decorated earthenware itself. Sources for the 150 colour illustrations include the Amsterdam Rijksmuseum's collection of Delftware, one of the Netherlands' most beautiful collections.

EurAsian Matters Anna Grasskamp, Monica Juneja, 2018-05-03 The volume examines the mutually constitutive relationship between the materiality of objects and their aesthetic meanings. Its approach connects material culture with art history, curation technologies, and practices of making. A central dimension of the case studies collected here is the mobility of objects between Europe and China, and the transformations that unfold as a result of their transcultural lives. Many of the objects studied here are relatively unknown or understudied. The stories they recount suggest new ways of thinking about space, cultural geographies, and the complex and often contradictory association of power and culture. These studies of transcultural objects can suggest pathways for museum experts by uncovering the multi-layered identities and temporalities of objects that can no longer be labelled as located in single regions. It is also addressed to students of art history of European and Chinese studies, and scholars of consumer culture. This eagerly awaited volume offers deep and extensive insights into the fast-growing field of material culture studies. Its fresh approach to Eurasian objects and materialities will serve as useful reading for all scholars interested in transcultural and global studies. A very helpful introductory essay.

An Archaeology of the English Atlantic World, 1600 - 1700 Charles E. Orser, Jr., 2018-07-05 An Archaeology of the British Atlantic World 1600-1700 is the first book to apply the methods of modern world archaeology to the study of the seventeenth-century English colonial world. Charles E. Orser Jr. explores a range of material evidence of daily life collected from archaeological excavations throughout the Atlantic region, including England, Ireland, western Africa, Native North America, and the eastern United States. He considers the archaeological record together with primary texts by contemporary writers, giving particular attention to housing, fortifications, Delftware, and stoneware. Orser offers new interpretations for each type of artefact. His study demonstrates how the archaeological record expands our understanding of the Atlantic world at a critical moment of its expansion, as well as to the development of the modern Western world.
