

Democratic Political System Analysis

Topic: Politics & Government | Words: 1211 | Pages: 4

This paper addresses the topic of democratic and authoritarian political systems, comparing the United States and China. The article seeks to answer the question: does a democratic system guarantee people's will and serve their needs more than an authoritarian government? Previous academic research has defined democracy and argued its essential elements. Claassen and Pedro (2022, 872) say that the best political formation should have the desired results and people's needs, including human rights, protection, and economic and social stability. For Claassen and Pedro (2022, 872), a democratic government becomes legitimate if it performs in the four key areas. Claassen and Pedro join other researchers who deviate from the idea of freedom of decision-making in politics and policies in a democratic regime to examining the results of such political formation. According to Claassen and Pedro (2022, 872), a democratic government does not guarantee citizen welfare. Parvin's (2018, 49) research shows that many people have avoided participation in politics despite a democratic system because such organizations do not solve inequalities and economic issues. The political leaders lack goodwill and a sense of responsibility to represent people once elected because of the perception that their selection satisfies people's freedom of expression (Parvin 2018, 49). However, Reliefweb (2022, par. 3) argues that democracy assures social justice because the majority prevents the elites from dominating political institutions. Following the debate, this paper argues that democracy does not serve social justice better than an authoritarian regime considering the difference between the US and China.

Ingelgom,Heidi Mercenier,François Randour,2024-09-06 Discussions about the crisis of representative democracy have dominated scholarly and public discourse for some time now But what does this phrase actually entail and what is its relevance today How do citizens themselves experience feel and respond to this crisis Bitter Sweet Democracy grapples with the complexities of these questions in the context of citizens relations to politics in Belgium a nation that has experienced political instability and protests as well as social mobilization and democratic vitality in recent years This timely and compelling volume offers new empirical evidence on the state of trust democracy and representation in Belgium it further introduces an innovative methodological and conceptual framework to study this crisis specifically by developing the concept of political resentment The essays in this collection span diverse topics from citizens conceptions of democracy itself and the expression of political resentment among socioeconomically disadvantaged groups to the influence of different emotional dimensions of resentment on protest behaviours By adopting a distinctive affective lens and by building upon the specific case of Belgium this volume contributes to the broader conversation on political resentment and the critical role of emotions in contemporary politics Bitter Sweet Democracy will be invaluable for scholars researching the relationship between emotions and politics political representation and democracy and citizen led conceptualizations of politics It will also appeal the relationship between minority territory and autonomy and how it informs our understanding of non territorial autonomy NTA as a strategy for accommodating ethno cultural diversity in modern societies While territorial autonomy TA is defined by a claim to a certain territory NTA does not assume that it is derived from any particular right to territory allocated to groups that are dispersed among the majority while belonging to a certain self identified notion of group identity In seeking to understand the value of NTA as a public policy tool for social cohesion this volume critically dissects the autonomy arrangements of both NTA and TA and through a conceptual analysis and case study examination of the two models rethinks the viability of autonomy arrangements as institutions of diversity management This is the second volume in a five part series exploring the protection and representation of minorities through non territorial means examining this paradox within law and international relations with specific attention to non territorial autonomy NTA
