Adolescent Self-esteem and Educational Practice Keith B. Higgins,1997-01-01 Marital Relationships and Parenting: Intimate relations and their correlates Ami Rokach,2018-11-09 Romantic relationships especially good ones are desired of almost all humans However what makes such relationships good and nourishing For the most part it is the support and intimacy that exists within the couple and their ability to experience life and face difficulties together This book is divided into two sections one focusing on the couple and their intimate relationship and the other on how that relationship influences their offspring Part one examines whether sacrificing in an intimate relationship is always beneficial and whether it help strengthen the marital couple unit Attachment theory has had a significant influence on how we view relationships in childhood as well as in adulthood The book sheds light on the mechanisms that mediate attachment style and the quality of the intimate relationships exploring the relationship between one s ability to express empathy and that person s ability to offer social support to his her partner The second part of the book explores what young adults think about marriage influenced by their parental relationship how parental relationships affect children s social experience in school how parental approaches to children affect their sibling relationship the parental role in childhood eating disturbances and how the family climate affects children s loneliness All in all the book affords a thorough review not only of what marital couple intimacy is and what can affect it but how significant it is in affecting their children in and out of the house The chapters in this book were originally published in the Journal of Psychology Motivation for Improvement and Network Structure Stoyan V. Education is a comprehensive child development text written especially for educators. It helps students to translate developmental theories into practical implications for teaching and caring for youngsters with diverse backgrounds, characteristics, and needs. The text draws from innumerable theoretical concepts, research studies conducted around the world, and the authors' own experiences as parents, teachers, psychologists, and researchers to identify strategies for promoting young people's physical, cognitive, and social-emotional growth. In this Australian edition, contemporary Australian and New Zealand research has been highlighted, and local educational structures, philosophies, and controversies have been reflected.

Emotional and Behavioural Difficulties Associated with Bullying and Cyberbullying Peter Smith, 2013-09-26

Bullying affects the lives of many children; some are victims, some take part in bullying others, and many are to a greater or lesser extent onlookers or witnesses of bullying behaviours. Usually seen as something that happens in schools and amongst peers, the advent of cyberbullying by mobile phones and via the internet primarily in this century has seen cases of bullying increase, and traditional forms of the behaviour evolve. This book considers the effects of bullying and cyberbullying on children. It looks at the different roles that are present within bullying and the different effects that it can have on a child's development of psychosomatic problems, self-esteem, friends, and loneliness, school satisfaction, and family relations. It focuses on several key aspects of this type of intimidation and considers topics including traditional bullying, the situation of immigrant children in relation to bullying and victimization, cyberbullying in young people, and emotional and behavioural correlates of cyberbullying. This book was originally published as a special issue of Emotional and Behavioural Difficulties.

Personal Constructivism Larry Milton Leitner, Jill C. Thomas, 2009

In a sense, the multifaceted contributions in this compendium deconstruct and reconstruct the very concept of personal construct psychology, tracing its personal origins in the life and work of George Kelly, examining its implications for the construction of a social self and its shadow side, alienation, and exploring its affordances for a striking range of clinical and theoretical issues. Anyone who wonders whether this wellspring of constructivist psychology continues to feed into vital contemporary discourse will be reassured by the strength, vitality, and novelty of the contributions to these pages, and the clarity with which Kelly's voice is echoed and extended in the voices of subsequent generations of scholars.

Education and Health as Social Determinants: The Eoneurobiology of Brain Development Raed Z. Mualem, Calixto Machado, Leon Morales-Quezada, Shir Shance, 2024-11-25

The eoneurobiology of brain development describes the interaction of factors in a child's environment that determine brain plasticity, cognition, and learning by enhancing brain connectivity and through gene expression. These factors shape concentration, learning, inside and outside the classroom, social interaction, emotional development, and behaviour. Although brain development is maximal in the first three years of life, elementary school education is a significant determinant of adult health, employment, prosperity, and public health. The goal of this research topic is to examine how childhood education may be optimized for individual and public health and to look more closely at the unique interaction of education and health as determinants of social well being and the health of societies Emphasis on six factors that form the econeurobiology of brain development a nurturing environment sleep nutrition exercise music and teaching and learning strategies in school and the community that enhance brain connectivity among school age children
