Adult Language Acquisition:

Adult Language Acquisition: Volume 2, The Results Clive Perdue, 1993-08-19 These two volumes present the methodology and results of an international research project on second language acquisition. The project studied the structure and success of the acquisition process in adult learners and the explanatory factors behind these phenomena. It places the study of second languages and inter ethnic discourse on a firm empirical footing. Volume II summarizes the crosslinguistic results.

Talking About People Peter Broeder, 2013-12-19 First Published in 1991. This work is a follow up on the European Science Foundation Project ESF entitled the Ecology of Adult Language Acquisition. The subject of this study is the process of untutored language acquisition in adults and the focus is on Turkish and Moroccan immigrants during the first three years of their stay in the Netherlands.

Adult Language Learning: Insights, Instructions And Implications Shamim Ali, 2011 Master's Thesis from the year 2006 in the subject Pedagogy Adult Education National University of Modern Languages Islamabad English Department course Research Project language English abstract. The present study aims to investigate that age is not a detriment to language learning. As young students are biologically disposed to better second language learning as well as given certain benefits such as lower self monitor and affective filter but at the same time adults are also not at a lower vantage point in L2 learning process. In the language learning program adult learners bring with them certain advantages. Adults are better at understanding grammatical rules since they are aware of the rules and structures in their own language. Especially in the areas of vocabulary and language structure adults are actually better language learners than children. Adult learners have more highly developed cognitive systems, are able to make higher order associations and generalizations and can integrate new language input with their already substantial learning experience. They also rely on long term memory rather than the short term memory function used by children and younger learners for rote learning. Adults have already developed learning strategies that have served them well in other contexts. They can use these strategies to their advantage in language learning. This research will suggest ways of dealing better with adult learners in their academic performance in the language class. The researchers aim will be to investigate that they have potentials to become accomplished language learners with the advantage of more advanced cognitive development in the first language and they integrate new language input with their already substantial learning experience. To prove her point of view the researcher will involve 10 teachers and 30 students of Diploma Certificate and Foundation level at the Department of English functional Courses at National U.

Adult Language Acquisition: Volume 1, Field Methods Clive Perdue, 1993-07-30 These two volumes present the methodology and results of an international research project on second language acquisition by adult immigrants. This project went beyond other studies in at least three respects: in the number of languages studied simultaneously in the organisation of co-ordinated longitudinal studies in different linguistic environments and in the type and range of linguistic phenomena investigated. It placed the study of second languages and inter ethnic discourse on a firm empirical footing.

Volume 1 explains and evaluates the research design adopted for the project Volume 2 summarises the cross linguistic results under two main headings native non native speaker interaction and language production Together they present the reader with a complete research procedure and in doing so make explicit the links between research questions methodology and results
