Preaching Jesus Charles L. Campbell, 2006-09-01 The post liberal cultural linguistic theology of the Yale School has been one of the most important theological developments in the United States during the latter twentieth century In this unique book which combines theological analysis and homiletical reflection Charles Campbell examines post liberal theology as it is embodied in the work of Hans Frei and develops the implications of this theological position for the theory and practice of preaching Arguing that the trouble with homiletics today is fundamentally theological Campbell offers Frei's theological position as a means for enriching the Christian pulpit and renewing the church

That which we have seen Adriaan Neele, 2026-01-19 This study considers whether phenomenology as in the French philosophy of the later part of the twentieth century can be applied fruitfully to the preparation of the sermon or homily It is structured in two parts a conceptual foundation that is descriptive and exploratory in nature assessing and appraising the works of twentieth century French philosophers of phenomenology particularly on the reading of Scripture and prayer and a constructive proposal that identifies the possible limitations of phenomenology in French philosophy and suggests ways in which a contemplative phenomenology may be practiced while preparing a sermon or homily manifesting itself as a witness testimony and confession A tentative conclusion is reached in the final chapter suggesting the use of phenomenology with reservations for the practice of sermon preparation
