Aimer et mourir Eilene Hoft-March, Judith Holland Sarnecki, 2009-01-23 Aimer et Mourir offers a wide ranging selection of essays that collectively address how from the Middle Ages to the present the notions of love and death get inextricably associated with the narratives that are women s lives Some of the essays tackle male writers representations that link women and in particular women s sexuality with death resulting in the figures of the femme fatale the woman in parturition and the desiring vampire A number of essays reiterate that women s hyper sexualized bodies have been used as a social construct and a psychological screen upon which to project a fear of death The challenges to this pat reduction of woman s domain come from the mostly women writers represented here and they span from Marguerite de Navarre to Am lie Nothomb These women writers rework the old formulae giving us instead death defying memories of love love regenerative of language as of bodies love forcing the frontiers of death or love creatively redefined within the parameters of death Nor are these new narratives imagined as belonging to women alone but rather as attesting to a richer more varied and greatly sensitized human experience

Women's Lives in Contemporary French and Francophone Literature Florence Ramond Jurney, Karen McPherson, 2016-10-13 The essays in this volume provide an overview and critical account of prevalent trends and theoretical arguments informing current investigations into literary treatments of motherhood and aging They explore how two key stages in women s lives maternity and old age are narrated and defined in fictions and autobiographical writings by contemporary French and francophone women Through close readings of Maryse Cond H l ne Cixous Zahia Rahmani Linda L Pierrette Fleutieux and Mich le Sarde among others these essays examine related topics such as dispossession female friendship and women s relationships with their mothers By adopting a broad synthetic approach to these two distinct and defining stages in women s lives this volume elucidates how these significant transitional moments set the stage for women s evolving definitions and interrogations of their identities and roles

Dolce Agonia : a Novel Nancy Huston, 2002 Dolce Agonia is a sometimes sad yet openly comic work a moral and social reflection on our times compressed into a few hours of a snowy Thanksgiving night in a small college town in New England Sean Farrell the poet with a gift for instilling discomfort is the host for this unforgettable evening among his dozen guests are poets and writers and professors former lovers an artist turned housepainter a bread maker a secretary and a young woman with an infant and a haunting past Not all of them know one another when the evening begins but as this remarkable novel unfolds the reader will come to know each of them intimately to move inside their skins and to live in their thoughts to share in their past sufferings and to know their hopes even to catch a glimpse through the eyes of their creator into their futures to know their fates It is Nancy Huston's gift and triumph that she can move so freely and seamlessly from tragedy to comedy And what comedy she give us her insights into the ego of the ageing male are as funny as they are uncanny even the death of a beloved characters is rendered through such absurd twists that laughter overwhelms sadness With Dolce Agonia Huston has written an eloquent exploration of mortality that is a celebration of life At the core of this novel is a universal plea that we never let go of our friends never lose their stories

Humour in Self-Translation Margherita Dore,2022-10-15 This book explores an important aspect of human existence humor in self translation a virtually unexplored area of research in Humour Studies and Translation Studies Of the select group of international scholars contributing to this volume some examine literary texts from different perspectives sociological philosophical or post colonial while others explore texts in more extraneous fields such as standup comedy or language learning This book sheds light on how humour in self translation induces thoughts on social issues challenges stereotypes contributes to recast individuals in novel forms of identity and facilitates reflections on our own sense of humour This accessible and engaging volume is of interest to advanced students of Humour Studies and Translation Studies
