Dominating Knowledge Development Culture And Resistance:

Dominating Knowledge Frédérique Apffel Marglin, Stephen A. Marglin, 1990-08-23 This book addresses the role of knowledge in economic development and in resistance to development It questions the conventional view that development is the application of superior knowledge to the problems of poor countries and that resistance to development comes out of ignorance and superstition It argues instead that the basis of resistance is the fear that the material benefits of Western technologies can be enjoyed only at the price of giving up indigenous ways of knowing and valuing the world an idea fostered as much by present day elites who have internalized colonial elites who ruled before them A prerequisite to decoupling Western technologies from these political entailments is to understand the conflict between different ways of knowing and valuing the world This book differs from previous critiques of development because it addresses neither the strategy nor the tactics of development but the very conception itself Its focus is on knowledge and power in the development process The book argues that modern knowledge wins out in the conflict with traditional knowledge not because of its superior cognitive power but because of its prestige associated both with the economic and political ascendancy of the West over the past 500 years and with the cultural history of the West itself

Dominating Knowledge Frédérique Apffel Marglin, Stephen Alan Marglin, 1990 Dominating Knowledge Frédérique Apffel Marglin, Stephen Alan Marglin, 1990 This volume investigates the ways in which development strategies have affected traditional cultural values and social practices Some of the positions advanced are controversial all are imaginative and will provoke thought and reassessment in the field Pluralism Maria Baghramian, Attracta Ingram, 2014-02-25 Cultural moral and religious diversity is a pervasive feature of modern life yet has only recently become the focus of intellectual debate Pluralism is the first book to tackle philosophical pluralism and link pluralist themes in philosophy to politics A range of essays investigates the philosophical sources of pluralism the value of pluralism and liberalism and difference in pluralism including writings on women and the public private distinction This is a valuable source for students of philosophy politics and cultural studies

In Search of Living Knowledge Marja-Liisa Swantz, 2016-01-01 Marja Liisa Swantz has spent a lifetime conducting participatory action research in Tanzania and In Search of Living Knowledge encapsulates her reactions She started her career in 1952 in Tanganyika as an instructor to the first generation of women teachers at Ashira Teachers Training College situated on the slopes of Mount Kilimanjaro In the first years of Tanzanias independence from Britain she devoted five years 1965 1970 to participant research in a coastal Zaramo village near the capital city of Dar es Salaam The research culminated in her book Ritual and Symbol in Transitional Tanzanian Society and a doctorate in Anthropology of Religion which she received from the Swedish University of Uppsala in 1970 The author further developed the Participatory Approach to research while serving as a Senior Research Fellow at the University of Dar es Salaam from 1972 to 1975 After becoming a lecturer at the University of Helsinki she continued to develop Participatory Action Research with Tanzanian and Finnish doctoral candidates in a project in Bagamoyo Tanzania known as Jipemoyo She continued to apply the participatory approach in research projects as Director of the Institute of Development Research at the University of Helsinki where she taught anthropology and as a Senior Researcher at the World Institute for Development Economics Research Institute in Helsinki in the 1980s Since retirement the author has continued her research writing and participation in development projects in Tanzania including projects in Mtwara and Lindi from 1992 to 1998 and for 12 years while involved in a Local Government Cooperation project between Hartola in Finland and Iramba in Tanzania

Mandated Landscape Roza El-Eini, 2004-11-23 In this ground breaking authoritative study a highly documented and incisive analysis is made of the galvanising changes wrought to the people and landscape of British Mandated Palestine 1929 1948 Using a comprehensive and interdisciplinary approach the book s award winning author examines how the British imposed their rule dominated by the clashing dualities of their Mandate obligations towards the Arabs and the Jews and their own interests The rulers Empire wide conceptions of the White man s burden and preconceptions of the Holy Land were potent forces of change influencing their policies Lucidly written Mandated Landscape is also a rich source of information supported by numerous maps tables and illustrations and has 66 appendices a considerable bibliography and extensive index With a theoretical and historical backdrop the ramifications of British rule are highlighted in their impact on town planning agriculture forestry land the partition plans and a case study presenting discussions on such issues as development ecological shock law and the controversial division of village lands as the British operated in a politically turbulent climate often within their own administration This book is a major contribution to research on British Palestine and will interest those in Middle East history geography development and colonial postcolonial studies

Communication for Democracy Or Development ? Sujatha Sosale, 1998

Future Survey Annual , 1990

Proceedings of the Third International Hindu Kush Cultural Conference Israr-ud-Din, 2008 The volume is a compilation of selected papers presented at the Third International Hindu Kush Cultural Conference held in Chitral town from 26 30 August 1995 The conference was multi disciplinary aiming at increasing communication not only among local and international scholars but also among academic disciplines The volume emphasizes the geo political as well as socio cultural importance of the region and contains valuable recommendations for the future development of the region The volume focuses on themes such as environmental problems and the need to conserve forests and soil erosion The potential negative environmental and cultural consequences of development projects have also been discussed and there are recommendations for development agencies to incorporate a cultural and environmental sensitivity component into their planning process The volume will help to increase awareness of the fact that the natural physical environments and cultural environments are intimately related When the natural environment is degraded the cultural environment is endangered

Social Aspects of Sustainable Dryland Management Daniel Stiles,1995-06-20 With dryland areas accommodating approximately one billion people in over a hundred countries there is obviously a problem of increased stress being placed on the natural resources of these areas which ultimately contributes to overall land degradation Coupled with this many developing countries particularly in Africa are showing a fall in agricultural production per capita with people migrating away from dryland areas such relocation to marginal lands and forests or to already over populated cities further enhances global land degradation With this in mind Social Aspects of Sustainable Dryland Management attempts to address the overall problem of land degradation and provides ways in which dryland productivity and viability can be increased and managed for future years The volume bases its results on case studies and field research projects and encourages a greater involvement of the local population in developing methods of management of their own natural resources This volume therefore embodies a concept of development far beyond conventional methods It aims to show that land management must develop around the priorities needs and objectives of the people concerned and emphasises the need to involve local people in solving the problems of resource degradation so that future research and modern technologies can be developed with their participation Above all it seeks to recognise the value of indigenous knowledge in sustainable development so that such knowledge systems can become the starting point from which to plan management strategies and new technological adaptations

Consciousness, Society, and Values A. V. Afonso,2006 Contributed papers presented at a seminar organized by Indian Institute of Advanced Study Shimla and Dept of Philosophy Goa University

Asking, We Walk Corinne Kumar,2007 Contributed articles Farmers' Research in Practice Laurens van Veldhuizen,1997 This book examines farmers innovation through 17 wide ranging case studies from around the world It concludes by revisiting the major themes in relation to the lessons learned and sets out the future issues and challenges for governmental and non governmental organizations involved in agricultural development

The New Humanities Reader Richard Earl Miller,Kurt Spellmeyer,2005 The New Humanities Reader presents 32 challenging and important essays from diverse fields that address current global issues The authors contend that there is a crisis within the humanities today due to specialization within narrow fields of scholarship resulting in a higher education system that produces students who lack the general cross disciplinary knowledge needed to better understand today's complex world. The selections encourage students to synthesize and think critically about ideas and research formerly kept apart. This approach challenges readers to resist mimetic thinking and instead creatively connect ideas to help them understand and retain what they read. Through this process of reading, discussing, and writing, students develop the analytical skills necessary to become informed citizens. Focused on today's issues, the selections represent both well-known nonfiction authors and newly published writers and are drawn from such periodicals as The New Yorker and Natural History and from best-selling books including Reading Lolita in Tehran, Fast Food Nation, and Into the Wild. Students will be engaged by reading and rereading, analyzing, and working with these selections not simply because they are models of good writing but because they are also deeply thought-provoking pieces that invite readers to respond.

Contemporary India Satish Deshpande, 2004. Globalisation, Hindutva, and Mandal agitation have transformed India's social landscape over the past few years. Re-examining the country in the light of these effects, the author questions why, in some respects, the country is so keen to modernise yet remain in the past on other issues.

Dissenting Knowledges, Open Futures Vinay Lal, 2000. Scholarly and topical. This volume is essential reading for students of Indian society, culture, politics, and history. Political psychologists and theorists, cultural critics, and scholars across disciplines.

The Oxford India Companion to Sociology and Social Anthropology Veena Das, 2003. With fascinating entries on sociological and social anthropological research in India, this volume presents a wealth of information, including developments in the field, important empirical work, and its contributions to sociology as a whole. It will appeal to all sociology students as well as to anyone with a broad interest in Asian studies.

Who Will Save the Forests? Tariq Banuri, Frédérique Apffel-Marglin, 1993. Forms of reaction and action.
