Williams,1987

Increasingly the importance of industrial logistics is being recognised as a defined function of management integrating the previously separate functions of materials and distribution management Accelerating this integration are new techniques arising from the increased use of computers and data transmission A large part of the Logistics 87 conference was concerned with these techniques and their future development In selecting papers the organising committee has been particularly concerned that papers have practical relevance and two conference sessions have been devoted to case studies from a wide variety of industries including discussions of the problems of global sourcing in relation to Just in Time manufacture New Technical Books New York Public Library,1991 IMD Cases ,1990 International Operations Operations Management Association. Conference,1992 The progressive globalisation of business and the advent of the single European market have resulted in new opportunities and unprecedented competition The papers in this volume focus on both manufacturing and service sectors and address the challenges of managing across national frontiers The principal subjects covered are international perspectives strategy and organisation technology and systems and quality and performance

Innovation and Training in the Agribusiness Complex John Warmerdam,European Centre for the Development of Vocational Training,2000 Part of a European project to assess the opportunities and limitations of a sectoral approach to training this synthesis report focuses on innovation and training in the agribusiness complex Chapter 1 discusses the study objectives which were to gain more insight into the relationship between innovation and qualification in product chains into the role of training agencies and other sectoral agencies in the transfer of innovations and adaptation of qualifications in product chains and into an assessment of opportunities and limitations of sectoral training systems in situations of rapid technological change and economic restructuring Chapter 2 highlights key concepts used in the studies Chapter 3 gives an overview of the following product chains studied in five countries beer production in Belgium cheese production in Greece bread production in Spain vegetable production in the United Kingdom and meat production in the Netherlands It describes the structure of the chains and major innovations occurring Chapters 4 7 address the following four basic issues regarding innovation and training in the agribusiness product chains impact of innovations on qualifications role of sectoral agencies in training for new qualifications transfer of innovations and the knowledge infrastructure and role of networks in innovation and training Chapter 8 addresses five basic issues innovation in the investigated product chains impact of innovation on qualifications sectoral training agencies and innovation related training and knowledge infrastructure in agribusiness Contains 18 references YLB Textile Technology Digest ,1991 The Embedded Firm Gernot Grabher,1993 Orthodox theory has in the past reduced economic organization to a choice between either hierarchical relations within firms or market relations between firms However firms are increasingly engaging in network forms of collaboration which are based on reciprocal patterns of communication and exchange This collection offers a balanced appraisal of network forms of organization It extends the research already carried out to assess the social and economic issues involved Three settings are detailed high technology subcontracting and regional networks These studies are placed in the context of the emergence of new industries and the successful transformation of traditional industries and regions In analysing sustainability networks the collection shows how this process of change can be attributed to a specific form of embeddedness of economic activity within the wider societal context The material presented here is from some of the leading scholars in the field Care has been taken not to idealize networks as a universally applicable blueprint for economic success but to both document the incontestable strengths and unveil their limits Future Survey Annual ,1995
