Dimensions Of The Cancer Problem:

Dimensions of the Cancer Problem F. M. Meleka, 1983-03-22      Dimensions of the Cancer Problem Fikry M. Meleka, 1983      High-Dimensional Data Analysis in Cancer Research Xiaochun Li, Ronghui Xu, 2008-12-19 Multivariate analysis is a mainstay of statistical tools in the analysis of biomedical data. It concerns with associating data matrices of  $n$  rows by  $p$  columns with rows representing samples or patients and columns attributes of samples to some response variables e.g. patients outcome. Classically the sample size  $n$  is much larger than  $p$  the number of variables. The properties of statistical models have been mostly discussed under the assumption of fixed  $p$  and infinite  $n$ . The advance of biological sciences and technologies has revolutionized the process of investigations of cancer. The biomedical data collection has become more automatic and more extensive. We are in the era of  $p$  as a large fraction of  $n$  and even much larger than  $n$ . Take proteomics as an example. Although proteomic techniques have been researched and developed for many decades to identify proteins or peptides uniquely associated with a given disease state until recently this has been mostly a laborious process carried out one protein at a time. The advent of high throughput proteome wide technologies such as liquid chromatography tandem mass spectroscopy make it possible to generate proteomic signatures that facilitate rapid development of new strategies for proteomics based detection of disease. This poses new challenges and calls for scalable solutions to the analysis of such high dimensional data. In this volume we will present the systematic and analytical approaches and strategies from both biostatistics and bioinformatics to the analysis of correlated and high dimensional data.      The Cancer Problem William Seaman Bainbridge, 1914      Cancer, the Behavioral Dimensions Joseph Warren Cullen, Bernard H.
