Klein, Meg Riordan, 2009-08-08 Since it was first invented Americans have been trying to re design the American high school One of the latest approaches funded by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation is to find inventive high school designs that work well in one location and replicate them in other locations The authors of this book followed a design team from Big Picture Learning as it worked to do exactly this recording the challenges it faced and the strategies it employed Their accessible and entertaining account of Big Pictures work is laced with stories about scaling up by other school design teams and in other enterprises beyond high school Based on careful research the book is both a practical guide to a new dimension of school reform and also an interesting read for anyone interested in school change

Managing to Change Thomas Hatch,2009-04-24 This book shows how school improvement efforts are often undermined by the changing conditions around schools as well as by some of the very policies and programs designed to help them make improvements Hatch argues that schools cannot wait around for conditions to improve or for policymakers to figure out how to provide the right support Schools need to create the conditions for their own success To help them accomplish that the author describes a small set of key practices that schools can use to get resources manage external demands and build their capacity to make and sustain improvements over time Drawing on the stories of real schools this important book Explains why even schools that have strong principals committed teachers and involved parents continue to struggle while other schools can get by even without displaying the usual features of effectiveness Provides practical strategies to help schools take advantage of opportunities and respond to pressures in the external environment Explains why some of the usual solutions to improving schools like increasing pressure on low performing schools scaling up programs and school choice don t seem to be working the way they are supposed to Offers a vision of the work that needs to be done at both the local and national level to support school improvement on a wider scale
