Carnival Of Souls:

Herk Harvey's Carnival of Souls Herk Harvey, Michael H. Price, 2019-08-17 Carnival Comics proudly presents Herk Harvey's Carnival of Souls in a digital format for the first time ever. Michael H. Price's acclaimed graphic novel adaptation of the classic indie chiller film is back in print with a full scale restoration and expansion of the comic book treatment that moved Stephen King to rave. It's as nightmarish and unnerving as the movie. I'm in awe of your accomplishment. Originally commissioned by filmmaker Herk Harvey to mark the reissue of his 1962 CARNIVAL OF SOULS, Price's graphic novel version has taken on a life of its own. Gasp in horror as Mr. Price's great storytelling intertwines with Todd Camp's wickedly good artistry to scare the life out of you. In addition to Herk Harvey's Carnival of Souls, you get a collection of some of Michael H. Price and Todd Camp's classic horror gems. Nearly 300 pages of tricks and treats for all. Carnival of Souls is a registered trademark owned by Carnival Comics.

Carnival of Souls Jackson Cooper, 2017-12-19 An unapologetic mixture of camp and arthouse cinema, Herk Harvey's Carnival of Souls (1962) has emerged as a cult sleeper film that still influences filmmakers today. Though its production values are B-movie status, it has gained notoriety and respect for its atmosphere of dread and surrealist imagery, even being imitated by filmmakers such as James Wan, George Romero, and M. Night Shyamalan. Jackson Cooper argues that while Carnival has its shortcomings due to its production values, it is an incredibly mature film that mixes post-Psycho 1960 horror film paranoia with supernatural imagery. Cooper also argues that Harvey's film continues to influence modern horror films while riffing on the horror films of World War Two, as well as Harvey's own educational films. This is the first book-length study of the film.

Crash Cinema Mark Goodall, Jill Good, Will Godfrey, 2007 Crash Cinema: Representation in Film is a collection of essays that emerged from Crash Cinema, an annual symposium that is an integral part of the Bradford Film Festival at the National Media Museum, UK. The symposium was created by academics and curators who share the common aim of promoting the importance of film, both as an academic study and for critical public appreciation. Films can be enjoyed as entertainment, they can educate and inform, and they can excite and disturb. Films are powerful pieces of culture. The films that we now consume do more than simply amuse or horrify. Cinema not only thrills us but also communicates to us about ourselves, and in the twentieth and twenty-first century, moving images have become the dominant form of this communication. Bombarded by images, we inhabit a media-intensive world in which every aspect of life is pervaded by visual signs. In these circumstances, it becomes increasingly significant to engage with the politics of representation. Through this vital process, we can acknowledge that all cultural forms, whether in high art or the mass media, are in the broadest sense political. We can also appreciate that it is a complex agenda of interests that shapes specific ideological meanings. Fully equipped, we can apply this essential tool to the exciting task of decoding the political, social, and cultural meanings articulated through the making, promotion, and consumption of film. This book aims to offer an arena for the analysis of these representations. Representations cannot depict the truth, and the essays in this book do not claim to search for the truth TM We ask whose truth TM is being represented how is it represented and why is it represented like that We also ask how do representations tell us something about the culture within which they are created Yet the essays in this volume are not stuck TM in the representational concerns of the past and try instead to uncover the power of cinema to shock and surprise whether that be through visceral impact subversive content experiments with identity or the exploration of the taboo Representation as defined by the eleven essays in this book is a fluid and dynamic approach to the study of film The study of film to which this book contributes some unique case studies is as popular as ever and has withstood growing challenge from the new media such as CG Animations the internet and computer console and online gaming This is because the pleasure of film is still the most humanistic and because the sophistication of the representations offered by cinematic expression remain ever more complex and pleasurable to decipher This book can therefore be read by any student academic writer or filmmaker hooked on these delights not proud of The Jungle Captive and Weird Woman fall into the latter category. House of Wax co star Paul Picerni was fired by the film's director when he refused to put his head in a working guillotine during a climactic fight scene. Packed with wonderful tidbits, this volume collects 22 interviews with the moviemakers responsible for bringing such films as This Island Earth, The Haunting, Carnival of Souls, Pit and the Pendulum, House of Wax, Tarzan the Ape Man, The Black Cat, Them, and Invasion of the Body Snatchers to the movie screen. Faith Domergue, Michael Forest, Anne Helm, Candace Hilligoss, Suzanna Leigh, Norman Lloyd, Maureen O Sullivan, Shirley Ulmer, Dana Wynter, and many more are interviewed. The Encyclopedia of American Independent Filmmaking Vincent LoBrutto, 2002-12-30 Independent filmmaking is often regarded as a relatively recent phenomenon, yet the so-called movement has actually existed as long as movies themselves. In this indispensable single-volume reference work, LoBrutto surveys the subject from cinema's inception through the 21st century. Written in an accessible style and including biographical, critical, factual, and bibliographical information, this remarkable source encompasses films and filmmakers operating independently from the studio system in concept, financing, production, and distribution. Such a broad interpretation of independent filmmaking separates it from that of commercial Hollywood, a conglomerate existing to create product rather than support personal artistic vision. Many of the entries' subjects have rarely been investigated and studied, yet knowledge of independent filmmaking is vital to any understanding of the cinematic medium, making this an essential book for any library's film shelves. Clowns in Horror Glenn Tolle, 2026-02-19 Clowns have always harbored a dark side, but with the proliferation of visual media platforms, their grotesque personas have taken center stage. A far cry from the jovial performers at children's parties and circuses, clowns have become a staple of the horror genre, from blockbusters like Stephen King's IT to indie cult favorites like Terrifier. This book explores the full spectrum of clown horror, covering both films, shorts, as well as features and TV shows. While it includes additional information about cast and crew, the book primarily offers a broad survey of clowns in the growing subgenre of horror entertainment. Also providing an overview of clown history, tracing the clown's origins back to ancient Rome, this text offers a comprehensive exploration of the macabre world of painted faces, twisted laughter, and nightmares represented in horror media. Attack of the Monster Movie Makers Tom Weaver, 1994 Twenty horror and science-fiction moviemakers, both in front of and behind the camera, reminisce about some of their great and not-so-great films. Merry Anders, Charles Bennett, Ben Chapman, Herman Cohen, Robert Day, Val Guest, Susan Hart, Candace Hilligoss, Rose Hobart, Betsy Jones Moreland, Jacques Marquette, Cameron Mitchell, Ed Nelson, William Phipps, Vincent Price, Ann Robinson, Herbert Rudley, Harry Spalding, Kenneth Tobey, and Lupita Tovar reflect on their work in such movies as Berserk, I Was a Teenage Werewolf, Cat Women of the Moon, and many other movies. Some interviews were previously published.
