A World Away Michael John Law,2022-01-15 The 1950s and 1960s were a transformative period in Britain and an important part of this was how Britons lives were changed when they began flying abroad for their holidays In A World Away Michael John Law investigates how something that previously only the rich could afford became available to working class holidaymakers A World Away moves beyond the big players in the tourist industry and technical accounts of the airplanes used by tour operators to tell the histories of the people who were there both tourists and tour guides using their personal testimonies Until now there has been uncertainty about the identity of these new tourists some feared they were working class intruders who might invade the pristine destinations favoured by the elite others claimed that most were from the middle class Using new data derived from flight accident investigations Law explains the complex origins of these new flyers In British society this unprecedented mobility could not go unpunished and the new tourists were lampooned in books and newspapers aimed at the middle classes Law shows how popular culture movies and music influenced the decision to travel and what actually happened when these new holidaymakers went abroad Law investigates the package tour industry from its mid century origins through its inherent weaknesses governmental interference and unforeseen world events that contributed to its partial failure in the early 1970s A World Away provides the definitive account of this important change in postwar British society

Cinema and Brexit Neil Archer,2020-09-03 Neil Archer s original study makes a timely and politically engaged intervention in debates about national cinema and national identity Structured around key examples of culturally English cinema in the years up to and following the UK s 2016 vote to leave the European Union Cinema and Brexit looks to make sense of the peculiarities and paradoxes marking this era of filmmaking At the same time as providing a contextual and analytical reading of 21st century filmmaking in Britain Archer raises critical questions about popular national cinema and how Brexit has cast both light and shadow over this body of films Central to Archer's argument is the idea that Brexit represents not just a critical moment in how we will understand future film production but also in how we will understand production of the recent past Using as a point of departure the London Olympics opening ceremony of 2012 Cinema and Brexit considers the tensions inherent in a wide range of films including Skyfall 2012 Dunkirk 2017 Their Finest 2017 Darkest Hour 2017 The Crown Netflix 2016 Paddington 2014 Paddington 2 2017 Never Let Me Go 2011 Absolutely Fabulous The Movie 2016 The Trip 2010 The Inbetweeners Movie 2011 Mr Bean's Holiday 2007 The World's End 2013 Sightseers 2012 One Day 2011 Attack the Block 2011 King Arthur Legend of the Sword 2017 and The Kid Who Would be King 2019 Archer examines the complex national narratives and representations these films expound situating his analyses within the broader commercial contexts of film production beyond Hollywood highlighting the negotiations or contradictions at play between the industrial imperatives of contemporary films and the varied circumstances in which they are made Considering some of the ways a popular and globally minded English cinema is finding means to work alongside and through the contexts of Brexit he questions what are the stakes for and possibilities of a global culturally English cinema in 2019 and beyond
