The Story of Australia's People Vol. II Geoffrey Blainey, 2016-10-31 In Volume II of The Story of Australia's People Geoffrey Blainey continues his account of the history of this country from the early Gold Rush to the present day completing the story of our nation and its people When Europeans crossed the world to plant a new society in an unknown land traditional life for Australia's first inhabitants changed forever For the new arrivals Australia was a land that rewarded tricked tantalised and often defeated From the Gold Rush to Land Rights and the Digital Age Blainey brings to life the key events of more recent times that have shaped us into the nation and people we are today Compelling groundbreaking and brilliantly readable The Story of Australia's People Volume II is the second instalment of an ambitious two part work and the culmination of the lifework of Australia's most prolific and wide ranging historian A Botanical Life Penny Olsen, 2013 Robert David Fitzgerald 1830-1892 was a successful colonial surveyor who had arrived in Australia in 1856 as a young Irish immigrant of 25. Although he was a public servant by trade he was also one of the last of the Victorian era gentlemen scientists, an avid naturalist, ornithologist and skilled taxidermist. In 1864 while searching for birds to add to his collection he was inspired by the discovery of a clump of Rock Lilies to collect a number of other orchid specimens in the area. Over the following years Fitzgerald devoted his leisure time to botanical illustration and documented the orchids of Australia publishing his discoveries in his internationally acclaimed work Australian Orchids. In so doing he corresponded and engaged with some of the greatest thinkers of his time including Ferdinand von Mueller, George Bentham and Charles Darwin. A Botanical Life presents a short biography followed by a portfolio section of more than 100 stunning full colour images.

Japanese Doctors in White Australia John Lamb, 2025-06-02 Lamb tells the stories of an unusual collection of men who by being aliens in a largely unwelcoming country have been omitted from the historical narrative. More than a dozen of these medical practitioners arrived and contributed to the welfare of Australian communities during the hundred years prior to the dismantling of race based immigration policies and this book examines not only what they achieved but the political, social and economic context in which they operated and the prejudice with which they dealt. Through its forensic investigation of archival materials both in Japan and in Australia as well as contact with descendants of the men, this study book throws unprecedented light on their trials and tribulations and on the factors most important in determining acceptance and performance in a discriminatory environment. Moreover, through its many illustrations, explanations and general narrative it draws the reader into the personal lives of the doctors and what they faced. At the same time its inclusion of detailed mortality and morbidity statistics and their analysis in conjunction with population and economic parameters will doubtless prove an important resource for medical historians. In its depth of research and access to relevant information in both countries and languages this book contributes to Australia-Japan relations and understanding and sets a new standard in cross-cultural research. A valuable resource for Australian and Japanese researchers and students of international immigration, medical history, the politics and character of racism, Asian Studies and International Relations. Migrant narratives further enjoy broad international appeal in countries including Asia, the United States and Europe. Relationships Paul Jones, Vera C. Mackie, 2001 No 28 of the Melbourne University History Monograph series. Explores the history of the changing relationship between Japan and Australia in the 19th and 20th centuries. Essays focus on personal relationships, media representations and official representations. Essays titles include Modernisation and Christianity in Australia's Immigration Legislation and The Forgotten Women. Includes introduction by editors and notes. Climate, Science, and Colonization Emily O'Gorman, Matthew Henry, 2014-09-17 Offering new historical understandings of human responses to climate and climate change this cutting edge volume explores the dynamic relationship between settlement climate and colonization covering everything from the physical impact of climate on agriculture and land development to the development of folk and government meteorologies
