Australian Town Planning Law Alan Stuart Fogg, 1974 Australian Town Planning Law Alan Stuart Fogg, 1974 This research report has been jointly sponsored by the Nuffield Foundation and the Australian Institute of Urban Studies and has been nominated by the latter body as Project 35 The project is directed towards an investigation on a comparative basis of the different town planning laws operating in Australia with a view to discovering their essential merits and possible defects and is also concerned with scrutinising subdivision control in order to establish the scope and importance of town planning laws stricto sensu in the general spectrum of the law of land development Analysis so based is then turned to an examination of whether viable positive suggestions can be made for improving the different Australian planning systems with a view to the possible distillation of uniform planning laws for the whole country

Social Process and the City Peter Williams, 2019-03-08 Contemporary urban studies engages a wide range of approaches in the analysis of the processes at work in urban areas These approaches derive from anthropology economics geography history politics and sociology as well as from the professional experience of town planning and architecture Social process and the city reflects this growing cross disciplinary engagement This shows the important problematic role which cities in particular and urban change in general have played in the growth of Australia The overriding concern of each essay in this collection is to develop an understanding of the ways urban areas function and an awareness of how differing interpretations of urban phenomena might be applied This attention to the nature of the forces at work and the processes these forces manifest themselves in is extended both empirically and conceptually This book was first published in 1983

Equity in the City P.N. Troy, 2012-12-06 Equity in the City is a collection of nine studies of the way the results of public investment in urban services are shared out among city dwellers The essays describe the way services such as water supply electricity roads and parks are financed and they analyse the way certain residents receive benefits from the public purse while others don't It examines the impact on planning and zoning and building regulation in terms of who gains the benefits from government Equity and the city reveals scarce public resources are allocated This book was first published in 1981

Zoned in the USA Sonia A. Hirt, 2015-02-24 Why are American cities suburbs and towns so distinct Compared to European cities those in the United States are characterized by lower densities and greater distances neat geometric layouts an abundance of green space a greater level of social segregation reflected in space and perhaps most noticeably a greater share of individual single family detached housing In Zoned in the USA Sonia A Hirt argues that zoning laws are among the important but understudied reasons for the cross continental differences Hirt shows that rather than being imported from Europe U S municipal zoning law was in fact an institution that quickly developed its own distinctly American profile A distinct spatial culture of individualism founded on an ideal of separate single family residences apart from the dirt and turmoil of industrial and agricultural production has driven much of municipal regulation defined land use and ultimately shaped American life Hirt explores municipal zoning from a comparative and international perspective drawing on archival resources and contemporary land use laws from England Germany France Australia Russia Canada and Japan to challenge assumptions about American cities and the laws that guide them Planning in Turbulent Environments John Stuart Western, Paul R. Wilson, 1977 Australian Government Publications Australian Government Publishing Service, 1975 The Town-planning and Local Government Guide, 1973 Town & Country Planning, 1977 Urban and Regional Planning in Victoria Toni Logan, 1981 Australian Books in Print, 1981 Index to Australian Book Reviews, 1977 Includes entries supplied by University of Queensland Library Staff Directory of Members Australasian Universities Law Schools Association, 1979 The Sydney Law Review, 1976 Australian Books, 1982 City Planning and Redevelopment Law Mary A.
