Besides some new techniques such as Web artificial intelligence and etc have been introduced into industrial applications. These unique characteristics and usage of new technologies have put many potential requirements on industrial data management which challenge today's database systems and promote their evolution. Viewed from database technology information modeling in databases can be identified at two levels: conceptual data modeling and logical database modeling. This results in conceptual semantic data model and logical database model. Generally a conceptual data model is designed and then the designed conceptual data model will be transformed into a chosen logical database schema. Database systems based on logical database model are used to build information systems for data management. Much attention has been directed at conceptual data modeling of industrial information systems. Product data models for example can be viewed as a class of semantic data models. i.e. Flexible Automation and Information Management - 1992 Osama K. Eyada, M. Munir Ahmad, 1992-06-15. Flexible Automation and Information Management 1992 features the proceedings of the Second International Flexible Automation and Information Management Conference FAIM 92. The book addresses problems faced by industry and research and development centers and it focuses on the state of the art and future trends within the general area of flexible automation and information management. Over 80 reviewed papers were contributed by authors from 20 countries. The papers center around six themes: 1 managerial aspects of world class manufacture, 2 concurrent engineering techniques, 3 computer integrated manufacturing, 4 CAD/CAM databases and applications, 5 flexible manufacturing systems including design analysis, control, scheduling and performance measurement and 6 increasing competitiveness through technology including cell controllers, image processing and electronics manufacturing. Managers, industrial and manufacturing engineers and researchers of computer integrated manufacturing will find Flexible Automation and Information Management 1992 to be a valuable reference. New Serial Titles, 1992. The need exists in the private sector and government manufacturing sites to reduce product development time, production lead times, inventory and non value added activities. At the same time there is increased pressure to improve manufacturing process yields, production efficiency and resource utilization. Much of the technology required to meet these needs already exists but an integrated structure that can demonstrate the potential for the technology in a concurrent engineering context does not. This book provides a road map for building the integrated technology environment to evaluate existing products, manufacturing processes and system design tools. This book details innovative approaches that will significantly improve design, manufacturing technology development and deployment capabilities for civilian and defense applications. These approaches are integrated product process and system design IPPSD initiatives which will greatly enhance the manufacturing competitiveness of the economy. These approaches involve the use of simulation modeling tools and computerized virtual workstations in conjunction with a design environment which allows a diverse group of researchers manufacturers and suppliers to work within a comprehensive network of shared knowledge The IPPSD infrastructure consists of virtual workstations servers and a suite of simulation quantitative computational analytical experimental and qualitative tools Such an IPPSD infrastructure will permit effective and efficient predictions of complete product design manufacturing process design and customer satisfaction *Faxon ...
