

HOW TO USE THE AUTOMOBILE GREEN BOOK

Read carefully so that you may use the book to the best advantage

FIRST: Refer to the general index map in the back of the book and locate your starting point and destination. On the reverse of the index map is a Truck Line Chart showing routes and mileage.

SECOND: If unfamiliar with the location on index map refer to index of Cities and Towns beginning on page 495. If the name is on the index map its location will be shown by key letter and number.

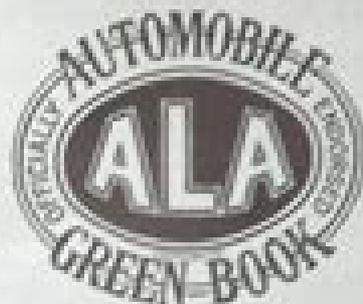

THIRD: If name is not on the key map, but is on a chartered route, the location of the route are given in the Index of Cities and Towns and by referring to diagrams on Pages 132 and 133 a large scale detailed map of our inland routes may be found.

FOURTH: Turn to the route numbers in the book for complete routing directions. The special routes are designated by R immediately following the route number. Connecting Route numbers are given at each terminal.

FIFTH: Important—Slight variations between routing instructions and pole markings are given at some locations that at these points, as in some instances, highway signs have considered in anticipation of improvements. Also in some instances, highway numbers are given every mile part of the route, the distance being over some highway that has not been given a number. When changes in highway numbers are being made from time to time, changing routing instructions should be followed generally, rather than depending entirely upon pole markings. Many routes will also be found entirely with out pole markings, yet being a part of the numbered system. These unnumbered highways or parts thereof are such as to give rise to the maps of the Bureau which will be found at highway numbers.
