Autobiographical Writings:

Journeys Mary Grimley Mason, Carol Hurd Green, 1979 Autobiographical Writings Henry E. Sigerist, 1966-01-01

Moments of Being Virginia Woolf, 1976 Moments of Being contains Virginia Woolf's only autobiographical writing. By far the most important book about Virginia Woolf that has appeared since her death. Angus Wilson, Observer, London. Edited and with an Introduction by Jeanne Schulkind. Index. Women, Autobiography, Theory Sidonie Smith, Julia Watson, 1998. The first comprehensive guide to the burgeoning field of women's autobiography. Essays from 39 prominent critics and writers explore narratives across the centuries and from around the globe. A list of more than 200 women's autobiographies and a comprehensive bibliography provide invaluable information for scholars, teachers, and readers. Telling Political Lives

Brenda DeVore Marshall, Molly A. Mayhead, 2008-01-01. Using a variety of critical methods, the contributing authors of Telling Political Lives demonstrate the ways in which the autobiographies of U.S. women leaders provide arguments that both reveal and shape perceptions of politics, empowerment, and ideology in the United States. Charles Mackay, 186? Here First Arnold Krupat, Brian Swann, 2000-06-13. Twenty-seven Native American writers describe their lives in relation to their art and to their families in a collection demonstrating the importance of storytelling in their heritage and the complexity of their experience. John Henry Mackay John Henry Mackay, 2001-05-04. Shortly before his death in 1933, John Henry Mackay summed up his life and work in his final book, Summing Up. Here, in English for the first time, with annotations by the translator Hubert Kennedy, Mackay insisted that this book is not an autobiography or a memoir, but it is the closest he came to either. In it, he looks back on a long life of successes and, alas, mostly failures. But he has no regrets for he remained true to himself and his early-gained vision of individualist anarchism. Although Mackay deliberately did not name persons here, many of those names and much other valuable information have been supplied by the editor, thus bringing us closer to the times recalled by the aging poet and propagandist. In a book written mostly in aphorisms, he sums up his life and work, his literary and political views, and one year before the Nazi assumption of power in Germany, predicts the future influence of communism from the Soviet Union. This volume also includes Dear Tucker, Mackay's letters to his American anarchist friend Benjamin R. Tucker, written in English since Tucker did not read German. Although one-sided, the letters from Tucker to Mackay were destroyed; the correspondence gives evidence of a life-long, warm friendship between the leading representatives of individualist anarchism in Germany and America, respectively. The letters have been supplied with notes that identify the many persons mentioned in them, thus helping to place them historically. Of particular interest is the insight they give into Mackay's literary struggle under the pseudonym Sagitta to promote the cause of love between men and boys. The letters reveal the ruthless opposition of the state in a classic example of the use of raw power to crush individual liberty. Together, Summing Up and Dear Tucker give us unexpected insights into the life and writings of John Henry Mackay. They help us better appreciate this Scotch-German lyricist, novelist, biographer, and anarchist propagandist whose writings

are indeed so various that they escape classification

Autobiographical Jews Michael Stanislawski, 2012-09-20
Autobiographical Jews examines the nature of autobiographical writing by Jews from antiquity to the present and the ways in which such writings can legitimately be used as sources for Jewish history Drawing on current literary theory which questions the very nature of autobiographical writing and its relationship to what we normally designate as the truth and to a lesser extent the new cognitive neurosciences Michael Stanislawski analyzes a number of crucial and complex autobiographical texts written by Jews through the ages Stanislawski considers The Life by first century historian Josephus compares the early modern autobiographies of Asher of Reichshofen Book of Memories and Glikl of Hameln Memoirs analyzes the radically different autobiographies of two Russian Jewish writers the Hebrew Enlightenment author Moshe Leib Lilienblum and the famous Russian poet Osip Mandelstam and looks at two autobiographies written out of utter despair in the midst and in the wake of World War II Stefan Zweig's The World of Yesterday and Sarah Kofman's Rue Ordener Rue Labat These writers attempt to portray their private and public struggles anxieties successes and failures are expressions of a basic drive for selfhood which is both timeless and time bound universal and culturally specific The challenge is to attempt to unravel the conscious from the unconscious distortions in these texts and to regard them as artifacts of individuals' quests to make sense of their lives first and foremost for themselves and then if possible for their readers

Encyclopedia of Life Writing Margaretta Jolly, 2013-12-04 First published in 2001 This is the first substantial reference work in English on the various forms that constitute life writing As this term suggests the Encyclopedia explores not only autobiography and biography proper but also letters diaries memoirs family histories case histories and other ways in which individual lives have been recorded and structured It includes entries on genres and subgenres national and regional traditions from around the world and important autobiographical writers as well as articles on related areas such as oral history anthropology testimonies and the representation of life stories in non-verbal art forms

From a Biography of Myself Robert David Quixano Henriques, 1969 Autobiography, Self Into Form Sandra G. Frieden, 1983 The autobiographical impulse dominated German language literature of the 1970s finding its expression in autobiographies of crisis women's coming to consciousness and disrupted childhoods This study examines the historical sociological political and literary historical context for this phenomenon and in so doing engages the critical international discussion of autobiography as a changing genre Detailed analyses of works by Ingeborg Bachmann Elisabeth Plessen Christa Wolf and Peter Handke suggest new critical approaches to autobiographical form The author provides an extensive bibliography of primary and secondary sources as well as a chronological table of autobiographical works of the decade

Autobiography: A Very Short Introduction Laura Marcus, 2018-05-31 Autobiography is one of the most popular of written forms From Casanova to Benjamin Franklin to the Kardashians individuals throughout history have recorded their own lives and experiences These personal writings are central to the work of literary critics philosophers historians and psychologists who have found in

autobiographies from across the centuries not only an understanding of the ways in which lives have been lived but the most fundamental accounts of what it means to be a self in the world In this Very Short Introduction Laura Marcus defines what we mean by autobiography and considers its relationship with similar literary forms such as memoirs journals letters diaries and essays Analysing the core themes in autobiographical writing such as confession conversion and testimony romanticism and the journeying self Marcus discusses the autobiographical consciousness and the roles played by time memory and identity and considers the relationship between psychoanalysis and autobiography Exploring the themes of self portraiture and performance Marcus also discusses the ways in which fiction and autobiography have shaped each other ABOUT THE SERIES The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area These pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly Our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable Being For Myself Alone Marcus Moseley,2005-06-13 This is a work of unprecedented scope tracing the origins of Jewish autobiographical writing from the early modern period to the early twentieth century Drawing on a multitude of Hebrew and Yiddish texts very few of which have been translated into English and on contemporary autobiographical theory this book provides a literary historical explanatory paradigm for the emergence of the Jewish autobiographical voice The book also provides the English reader with an introduction to the works of central figures in the history of Hebrew and Yiddish literature and it includes discussion of material that has never been submitted to literary critical analysis in English

Autobiographical Writings, 1890-1964 Leslie H. Barker,1969 Arab Women's Lives Retold Nawar Al-Hassan Golley,2007-10-18 Examining late twentieth century autobiographical writing by Arab women novelists poets and artists this essay collection explores the ways in which Arab women have portrayed and created their identities within differing social environments The collection goes well beyond dismantling standard notions of Arab female subservience exploring the many ways Arab women writers have learned to speak to each other to their readers and to the world at large Drawing from a rich body of literature the essays attest to the surprisingly lively and committed roles Arab women play in varied geographic regions at home and abroad These recent writings assess how the interplay between individual private ethnic identity and the collective public global world of politics has impacted Arab women s rights The Autobiographical Writings of Lewis Mumford Frank G. Novak,1988 University Library of Autobiography, Including All the Great Autobiographies and the Autobiographical Data Left by the World's Famous Men and Women ,1918 Reading Arab Women's Autobiographies

Nawar Al-Hassan Golley,2010-01-01 Authors of autobiographies are always engaged in creating a self to present to their readers This process of self creation raises a number of intriguing questions why and how does anyone choose to present herself or himself in an autobiography Do women and men represent themselves in different ways and if so why How do differences in culture affect the writing of autobiography in various parts of the world This book tackles these questions through a close examination of Arab women's autobiographical writings Nawar Al Hassan Golley applies a variety of western critical theories including Marxism colonial discourse feminism and narrative theory to the autobiographies of Huda Shaarawi Fadwa Tuqan Nawal el Saadawi and others to demonstrate what these critical methodologies can reveal about Arab women's writing At the same time she also interrogates these theories against the chosen texts to see how adequate or appropriate these models are for analyzing texts from other cultures This two fold investigation sheds important new light on how the writers or editors of Arab women's autobiographies have written documented presented and organized their texts
