Approximately Nowhere Poems:

Approximately Nowhere Michael Hofmann, 1999 A number of the poems in Michael Hofmann's new collection show him returning to the subject of his father the German novelist Gert Hofmann whose relationship with his son was also the principal subject of his celebrated 1986 collection Acrimony and of a memorable television documentary that appeared at that time In 1993 however Gert Hofmann died and the poems written since then replace the combativeness and acerbity of the earlier book with a more complex tone frankness and factuality are still important elements but they are tempered now by grief pity pain and bemusement BOOK JACKET Title Summary field provided by Blackwell North America Inc All Rights Reserved Poetry & Displacement Stan Smith, 2007-11-01 The paradigmatic figure of twentieth century history is the displaced person a concept which emerged from the demographic migrations deportations and genocidal purges that accompanied two world wars the destruction and construction of nation states and the restructuring of the global order which they occasioned These processes almost inevitably fostered a poetry of exile and expatriation intimately bound up with the experience of modernity and the culture of modernism culminating in the postcolonial era with the globalisation of displacement as the determining condition of postmodernity In this timely new volume renowned poetry critic Stan Smith examines a number of poets Plath Larkin Heaney Walcott Middleton Fisher Duffy through the lens of displacement

Michael Hofmann André Naffis-Sahely, 2025-03-26 For more than four decades Michael Hofmann has made significant contributions to the literary cultures of Germany the United Kingdom and the United States ranging from his original poetry to translations of Kafka Brecht Hans Fallada and Joseph Roth among others In the first book length study of this iconic figure poet and translator Andr Naffis Sahely surveys Hofmann's life and work with an emphasis on his poetry situating him within the New Generation of writers including Carol Ann Duffy Simon Armitage and Don Paterson who rose to prominence in Britain between the mid 1980s and the early 1990s Reaffirming Hofmann's central place in contemporary literature Naffis Sahely presents the author's oeuvre as an extended passport application as the poet's unusually peripatetic nature emerges as a poetic means of questioning various modes of authority Naffis Sahely examines Hofmann's chief literary influences revealing that while he was heavily inspired by the example of Robert Lowell's confessional model his work was equally shaped by other poetic mentors including Ian Hamilton and Hugo Williams In turn Hofmann's five published volumes of poetry from his debut Nights in the Iron Hotel to his latest collection One Lark One Horse published after a silence of two decades chronicle the poet's sentimental and intellectual education from adolescence to middle age as well as the traumatic emotional experiences that arose from his relationship with his father the German novelist Gert Hofmann whom the poet portrayed to shocking effect in his breakthrough second collection Acrimony Naffis Sahely concludes his study with an analysis of the influence Hofmann has exerted on other poets testifying to the value and importance of his work in the contemporary British tradition followed by an extensive interview reflecting on his career We Are Nowhere, Please
